The Japanese don't let any grass grow under their feet in preparing for war—instead, they make grass seem to "grow" on their soldiers' hats and equipment. Note how grass camouflages this column of infantry.

Here you see how the camouflaging of Japanese troops is done. A fish net like that hanging down the cavalryman's sleeve drapes his hat and his horse's mane. Concealing grasses and twigs are stuck into the openings.

NEW GOLD FIND SENDS NORTH ON BIG STAMPEDE

WHEAT BOARD REORGANIZED: NO FIRE SALE

McFarland Steps Out — Will Market Canadian Grain to Advantage

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—The Canadian wheat board has been reorganized with James R. Murray, of Winnipeg, as chairman, George H. McIver, of Winnipeg, vice-chairman, and Dean A. M. Shaw, of Saskatoon, third member, it was announced Tuesday night by Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce.

At the same time the Minister announced the new board will initiate a policy of selling wheat "to have our surplus restored to a normal basis." But, he added, there will be no "fire sale of wheat. It will be for sale at competitive values and will not be held at exhorbitant premiums over other wheats."

The advisory wheat board of seven farmers, millers and grain men, established by the Bennett government, has been abolished, Mr. Euler announced.

Assay Results Reported Rich

Blind Staking Now Covers Big Area

GOLDFIELDS, Sask., Dec. 4.—Assay results revealing more than 50 ounces of free milling gold to the ton of ore indicating lenses of approximately $1,885.00, the highest yet recorded of all discoveries in the Lake Athabaska area, has caused feverish excitement at Goldfields. Prospectors are rushing to the scene of the spectacular find, 30 miles northwest of Nyman's Bay, by plane and dog team.

Harry Hayes, McKenzie Air Service pilot, has been making two trips a day from Goldfields with loads of stakers and supplies to Charlotte Lake, the site of the discovery. The scene of the new rush lies six miles west of the Jim Wray farm. Beralls Eyedicete camp, on Neely Lake where diamond drilling is being done.

A score of parties are participating in the rush which started early this week when Archie Cameron, Ventures Field engineer, and George Caywood, prospector,

WARY GRAZIANI FAILS TO STEP IN TRAP LAID

Ethiopian Generals Now Say Counter-Offensive Necessary

HARAR, Dec. 4. — Ethiopian generals were convinced today a counter-offensive must be undertaken he ere the Italian southern armies are finally driven back into Somaliland.

Weary of waiting for the army led by Gen. Rodolfo Graziani to step into a trap prepared between Harar and Dagabur, the Ethiopian leaders dispatched a considerable force southward toward Dolo.

It was revealed for the first time that one of the main objects of the recent visit of Emperor Haile Selassie was to give his approval to plans for developing the new and more vigorous attack.

The previous policy of watchful waiting was adopted on the advice of Gen. Wahib Pasha, Turkish military adviser to the Ethiopian armies in the south, but the hope of cutting the Italians off when they were far from their bases proved to be ill-founded.

Tactless

Her career apparently blasted at its outset, Betty McIver, young Hollywood starlet, has on file a suit for $110,000 damages against a carpet company, complaining that the right of one eye will be lost permanently through the company's negligence. She alleges that while workmen were installing a telephone in her apartment, carpet tacks allegedly left negligently on the floor, flew up, striking her in the eye.

Great Britain And U.S. Now Seek Trade On Basis Of Reciprocity

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Secretary of State Hull confirmed today there have been exchanges of views between the United States and Great Britain regarding possible negotiation of a reciprocal trade pact. He added at his press conference no formal discussions have been held and that the exploratory exchanges were in a very indefinite stage because of disturbed world conditions.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Great Britain and the United States have undertaken preliminary work for a reciprocal trade agreement, an authoritative source disclosed last night.

The United States is one of Great Britain's best customers while the United Kingdom is the greatest foreign customer of the U.S.A.

This move follows upon conclusion of a trade agreement between Canada and the United States.

The two governments have had no exchange of view, understanding or conversations regarding the treaty, but it was learned independent surveys are underway in London and Washington to determine the practicability and benefits of a reciprocal agreement.

MAY SPEED UP

It is believed the work may be speeded up with a possibility of a conclusion next summer.

The Ottawa Empire agreements, which dealt a staggering blow to United States sales to Great Britain, expire in 1937. Some of Britain's more important trade agreements, like those with Denmark and Argentina, likewise will soon

APPOINTMENT COMMISSIONER RECOMMENDED

Council is Asked to Hire Third Official at Salary $4,000 a Year

Appointment of a qualified engineer as a third city commissioner on the existing commission board of two at a salary of $4,000 a year was recommended to city council by a special committee which sat Tuesday night to discuss this and other proposals in Mayor Jos. A. Clarke's 1936 program. The appointee would have charge of utilities and public works.

Choice of a person for the position was referred to council's nominating committee for a report.

$4,500 EACH

The motion recommending an additional commissioner also carried with it the proposal that Mayor Clarke and Commissioner David Mitchell act as the other two commissioners on the board, the mayor as chairman, and that each be paid $4,500 a year. If this plan is adopted by council, it will mean a cut

CLAIM ATTEMPT BEING MADE TO UNSEAT MAYOR

To be Charged With Participating in Illegal Raffle is Report

An attempt has been made to unseat Mayor Jos. A. Clarke by charging him with participation in an alleged illegal raffle, it was learned from reliable sources, Wednesday. Queried in this connection, C. C. Becker, crown prosecutor, said he had no knowledge of such a charge being laid against the mayor.

It was reported that the person or persons attempting to bring the count against the mayor were basing their action on Mayor Clarke's participation in automobile raffles held by the Edmonton Athletic Club and the Protestant Home for Children. In both these lotteries the mayor gained the winning tickets, and it is claimed that he thereby laid himself open to a charge of participating in the raffles.

The city charter provides that if he is found guilty of a criminal offence he may be unseated.

ILLEGAL UNDER CODE

Under the Canada Criminal Code, selling of articles valued at more than $50 is illegal. The Code also provides that monies derived from lotteries on articles up to the value of $50 must be used for charitable purposes only.

This section has not been strictly observed in the city in the past, charitable organizations having been given permission by the mayor

Agnes Favors Sterilization And Algebra Taboo

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—Miss Agnes MacPhail, member of parliament, favored sterilization of the unfit and condemned the teaching of algebra to farm children, in a vigorous speech last night before a meeting of the United Farm Women and the United Farmers of Ontario here.

She was too interested in the problem of production of children by sub-normal parents to be troubled about it, Miss MacPhail told her audience. It would be immodest, she thought, to ignore the problem.

"I just wonder," she said, "how much longer we're going to allow sub-normal people to produce their kind. It is a blasphemy of the worst kind. You farmers—would you want the worst type of our cattle to be the seed-bearers?"

Volunteers To Save Girl's Life In 35-Mile Dash

FALKLAND RIDGE, N.S., Dec. 4.—Eight men of this village were ready today to dash 35 miles to Bridgewater at a moment's notice with blood for a girl critically ill.

Gertrude Van Auburn Mason was in hospital in a state of collapse, weak from loss of blood after bleeding steadily 24 hours following a tooth extraction, and doctors feared a transfusion might be necessary to save her life.

At their call for volunteers the eight villagers offered to give blood. They were ordered to hold themselves in readiness.

Stalin Claims Russia Now On Way To Riches

MOSCOW, Dec. 4.—Joseph Stalin, speaking today at a conference of harvester [illegible] declared poverty among peasants has been abolished in the Soviet Union.

"At the time of the Czars 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 peasants were in a condition of semi-starvation," he said. "All this has been ended.

"We have succeeded in liquidating poverty along with unemployment. We are now on our way to wealth."

The Soviet dictator asserted between 4,000,000,000 and 5,000,000,000 pools of grain had been harvested in the Soviet Union this year, and appealed for an increase to 8,000,000,000. (A pood is equal to 36.1128 pounds).

EIGHT SAILORS DIE IN STORM

ISTANBUL, Dec. 4.—Eight sailors were drowned and many persons injured in a furious storm which ravaged the Black Sea and the Turkish coast today.

A number of small ships were wrecked and coastal communications were paralyzed. Considerable damage to property was reported.

CLERIC KILLED BY MONOXIDE

NELSON, B.C., Dec. 4. — Overcome by carbon monoxide gas while apparently attempting to remove chairs from the rear wheels of his car with the motor running, Rev. A. G. McMorine was found dead at New Denver today. The switch of the car was still on and the gas tank empty when the body was found.

Trio Killed By Runaway Train

MAUPIN, Ore., Dec. 4.—Three persons were reported killed and at least three injured today when approximately 15 cars broke from a freight train, raced down a long grade and crashed into a work train. Fire followed the crash. The victims were not identified immediately.

NEW ZEALAND IN NEW RULE

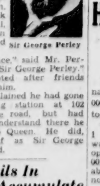

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Dec. 4.—Defeated in the general election Nov. 27, the National Government headed by G. W. Forbes resigned today. The Governor-General, Lord Galway, immediately invited Michael J. Savage, leader of the Labor party, to form a government.

Personnel of the cabinet will be announced tomorrow and the new ministers will be sworn into office on Friday. It is understood the ministers have already been named at a caucus of the Labor party.

Perley Narrowly Escapes Charge Imprisonment

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—Sir George Perley, former deputy prime minister, voted in Monday's municipal election and was disclosed to have been accused momentarily of impersonation.

It happened when George Perley, president of the Ottawa football club, received at 102 Queen street to vote and was told a man had voted already in his name. Indignantly Mr. Perley asked for a description of the man. The poll clerk said he was tall, distinguished in appearance and dark - bearded.

Sir George Perley

"I know at once," said Mr. Perley, "that it was Sir George Perley." However, he voted after friends had identified him.

Sir George explained he had gone first to a polling station at 102 street, across the road, but had been given to understand there he should go to 105 Queen. He did, identified himself as Sir George Perley, and voted.

Heavy Mails In North Accumulate

King And Queen Of Italy Give Up Wedding Circlets

ROME, Dec. 4. — King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena, a reliable source said today, have sent Premier Mussolini their wedding rings to aid the Italian campaign against starvation.

The Queen, it was reliably stated, sent Il Duce a letter which read:

"I desire you to know that among the many wedding gifts of the women of Italy will offer for the victory of our dear and great country will be the wedding ring of the King, a symbol of faith, affection and loyalty, together with my ring, which I give the country joyously."

"My ring represents all I hold dearest because it reminds me of the day on which I had the fortune of becoming an Italian."

HULL IS CITED IN OIL CASE

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Secretary of State Hull and four other United States cabinet ministers were under a Federal Court order today requiring them to show cause why they should not be restrained from interfering with shipments of oil, cotton, and certain other commodities to Italy.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard signed the order last night directing the officials to answer next Tuesday. It was in response to a suit filed yesterday by Philip Giordano, New York, Italian-American newspaperman.

HUGE LONDON LOAN IS TAKEN

LONDON, Dec. 4—Great Britain's national defence loan of $1,500,000,000 was entirely subscribed by noon today.

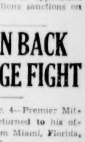

The first section of $500,000,000 at 1 per cent redeemable in 1939-1941 was entirely subscribed at the opening at 9 a.m., the remaining $1,000,000,000 at 2½ per cent redeemable in 1956-61 was covered by

Part of these proceeds will go into the rebuilding of Britain's navy, including the construction of three new battleships.

HEPBURN BACK TO WAGE FIGHT

TORONTO, Dec. 4—Premier Mitchell Hepburn returned to his offices Tuesday from Miami, Florida, where he has been resting, and announced he would lead the government in the next session of the legislature and would refuse assent Ontario at the interprovincial conference at Ottawa.

The sun-tanned premier refused to discuss the question of his resignation as premier or whether he would reconsider. He said he was amazed at the quick recuperation from the poor health that sent him south in search of a cure.

2 BANK THUGS SHOOT CLERKS: STEAL $16,000

HULL, Que., Dec. 4.—Two men today held up the Main street branch of the Banque Provinciale, shot and wounded two clerks, one critically, and escaped with more than $16,000.

Armand Nadeau was shot in the head. He was not expected to live. Wm. Lafleur was wounded in one arm. Both were rushed to Sacred Heart hospital. Lafleur was released after treatment. Police started to search for the robbers but were said to have only meagre descriptions of them.

BURGLAR GETS $1,000 IN FURS

PEACE RIVER, Dec. 4.—More than one thousand dollars worth of fur was stolen some time during Tuesday night from the Hudson's Bay fur office situated on the Main Street and Mounted Police are carrying on investigations. Entrance was made by the front door by breaking out of a chunk of glass over the Yale lock sufficiently large to insert a hand.

The loss was discovered Wednesday morning by Pat Carey in charge of the fur office.

TWO U.S. AIDES SHOT TO DEATH

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 4—Louis Pappan, 42, United States internal revenue agent, and Frank Stewart, former police detective captain, were shot to death at the Sheridan club, a night club east of the city, early today.

Two employees of the club, Tyree Park, doorman, and G. H. (Hickory) McCullough, were held by county officers. Both men said the slain men were attempting a holdup.

Attend Convention

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—Leaders of progressive groups in the United States and Canada will attend the annual meeting of the committee of the Canadian League Against War and Fascism here Friday night.

Here's Big Opportunity To Hearten Wounded World War Veterans

When the clarion call to arms call in 1914, hundreds of thousands of the flower of youth sprang to the colors and rushed across the seas to fight that liberty might prevail over oppression. The boys went away with bands playing, bugles blowing, flags flying and girls cheering them on. It was grand—great.

But on those blood-soaked fields of Belgium and France the boys matched their flesh against cold steel, burning oil and molten metal. In such an unequal contest, the flesh proved the weaker.

Now, many of these gallant lads, 17 years and more after the cessation of hostilities, are still confined to hospital, suffering wounds and other disabilities received in action. A large number are confined to the Military Wing of the University hospital.

It is to afford residents an opportunity of providing a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year for these lads that The Bulletin once more has opened its columns to receive subscriptions to the Not Forgotten Fund. This is not a charitable fund—it is to give each and

Duce Tightens Up His Belt For Sharp Drive Against Economic War

By CHARLES H. GUPTILL

Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press

ROME, Dec. 4.—Premier Musolini sharpened his weapons for an economic war today with the approval of his ministers. In addition to numerous other precautionary steps, Il Duce was reported to have withdrawn all naval leaves. Full efficiency of his million-man army was assured several days ago by the cancellation of furloughs of 100,000 men.

Conservation of oil was the main object of the cabinet meeting today, in view of a threatened League of Nations embargo. But food, commerce, finance, the army, navy and air force all received consideration, and 52 decrees were endorsed.

The opinion is expressed in authoritative quarters here that the proposed League of Nations embargo on oil to Italy is dead. These quarters saw no apparent reason for the scheduled meeting of the League committee of 18 at Geneva, Dec. 12, when the projected oil embargo is slated for discussion.

The optimistic viewpoint regarding oil here, informed sources said, was based on the attitude of the Canadian government in declaring that its representative at Geneva, Dr. Walter A. Riddell, supported the embargo on his own initiative, and not on that of the government.

Writing in the Glornale D'Italia on the Canadian government's statement, Virginio Gayda said: "The granite block of Imperial will here display the most noticeable fissures. It has been said that Great Britain has done her duty in the matter of sanctions and is leaving to other countries the honor of initiating new sanctions.

"Now that Canada declines the honor of the new initiative, the question is to know who will be willing to assume it. In fact it is necessary to define what other sanctionist country is willing to put itself on a level with England and assume active and maximum responsibility for sanctions.

NO DOUBLE LIFE

"The more sanctions are multiplied, the worse will be the result that inevitably will affect everyone. No sanctionist government can have any further doubt as to the consequence of this new kind of sanction which shifts from the economic to the more dangerous one of blockade of our military action."

"The common action ship is becoming like water," La Tribuna said. "Canada has been brought face to face with her responsibilities for initiative which was capable of bringing an Italian reaction that is profoundly feasible in the already delicate European political condition."

Standard Oil Supply Still Goes To Italy

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey said today it was continuing to supply oil to its Italian subsidiary.

Walter C. Teagle, president, however declined "unequivocally" to publish report that through its Italian subsidiary it had guaranteed Il Duce a supply of fuel oil for the duration of the Ethiopian campaign in return for a valuable monopoly.

In response to inquiries as to the status of the company's relations with the Italian government, Mr. Teagle's office referred to his statement of Oct. 18 in which he said he saw no reason to interfere with the regular commercial oil business between Standard and its Italian company.

Mystery Cloaks Policies Of Government — Dangers Are Dramatically Pointed Out.

By ALFRED TYRNAUER
Special to Edmonton Bulletin

VIENNA, Dec. 4.—What will be the fate of Austria? The average citizen in Canada knows what Mussolini wants, guesses what Hitler is aiming at, and is informed on the whole of the policy of Laval, Hoare and Litvinoff. Of the Austrian policy alone he knows nothing.

The attitude of the Austrian government is seemingly unchanged. Government newspapers are pointing out the dangers implied by sanctions against Italy. Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg declares that he will continue the policy of Dollfuss, safeguarding Austria's independence. The real strong man of the government, Prince Starhemberg, seeks to make Austria an independent factor. Every government members, discussing the situation, make no secret of their sympathy for Mussolini.

On the other hand, the British note to France in reply to the French inquiry as to what course England would take in case of an unprovoked attack by one European country upon another has been received with satisfaction.

A recent semi-official article in a Vienna newspaper points out that though Great Britain declares that she stands for the system of collective security she reserves herself the right to examine any given case of aggression and to act or refrain from acting "in accordance with the circumstances."

GERMANY MAY ATTACK

M. Laval, by making his inquiry indicated a possible attack by Germany on Austria. The semi-official comment on the British reply therefore profoundly troubles the already delicate European political condition."

Watch For Restoration

be willing to take the initiative as Italy did at that highly critical moment."

In government circles it is hoped, however, that a more reassuring statement concerning Austrian independence will be the result of the British-French negotiations in connection with the Italo-Abyssinian war.

Nervousness in Austrian government circles was increased by the rapprochement between Germany and Italy. Mussolini declared that sanctions would drive Italy on the side of those who "demand a new distribution." Hitler answered by assuring the Duce of Germany's benevolent neutrality." This meant that Germany would not participate in sanctions and would be ready to supply Italy with coal and war material.

This is possible only via Austria. Austria, lying between the two great-powers, might not be in Austria and 25, 1934, after the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss, Great Britain would not be willing to take the initiative as Italy did at that highly critical moment."

In government circles it is hoped, however, that a more reassuring statement concerning Austrian independence will be the result of the British-French negotiations in connection with the Italo-Abyssinian war.

Nervousness in Austrian government circles was increased by the rapprochement between Germany and Italy. Mussolini declared that sanctions would drive Italy on the side of those who "demand a new distribution." Hitler answered by assuring the Duce of Germany's benevolent neutrality." This meant that Germany would not participate in sanctions and would be ready to supply Italy with coal and war material.

This is possible only via Austria. Austria, lying between the two great-powers, might not be in the zone of influence of Fey, the principal National Socialist sympathizer, from the cabinet. He said that the government is aware of the danger of being entirely absorbed in a coalition just as it happened in Germany to the partners of Herr Hitler.

Socialists and Democrats, on the other hand, hope that the present Italian-British conflict will strengthen the democratic forces in Europe, as well as the League of Nations. They hope that a firm action of the western powers will not only affect Mussolini but will weaken the prestige of dictatorship in general. Nevertheless, even the most optimistic observers are pessimists as far as Austria's fate is concerned in case of an armed conflict in Europe.

Monarchists are just as active as Nazis in trying to exploit the situation for their purposes. They increase their propaganda for the return of Otto of Hapsburg, or the elevation of Prince Starhemburg and argue that only the restoration of the monarchy can save Austria from being swallowed by Germany. Though most members of the government are avowed monarchists, they do not believe that a restoration is feasible under the present conditions. The result of a monarchist putsch might be that all opponents of the Hapsburgs, the Little Entente states (Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Jugoslavia), and Germany might join hands against the revived empire, even though it would be restricted to nearly one-tenth of its former territory.

GREAT BRITAIN, U.S. SEEKING TRADE PACT

expire. Britain also is seeking revision of its Russian trade arrangement.

A successful agreement, observers believe, would be very popular because the international situation finds the British public favoring cordial anglo-American relations.

United States experts to Great Britain, which have fallen off to scarcely 15 per cent of their great post-war totals, begin with raw cotton and tobacco and include a wide variety of raw materials, machinery, semi-finished goods and some metals. British exports to the United States are essentially finished manufactured goods.

Both countries have a great textile industry, now in an alling condition, both sides of the Atlantic. Textiles therefore would likely not enter into the negotiations.

FAVORABLE BALANCE

The United States enjoys an overpoweringly favorable balance of trade against the United Kingdom. This the British would like to see brought into better balance, even though the relations would not as lopsided as would first appear because of invisible items such as shipping, tourist trade and services.

Trade in 1934 reveals how clearly the depression has struck the Anglo-American exchange of goods. That year Great Britain alone shipped about $450,000,000 worth of products to the United Kingdom, and took about $85,000,000 in British goods. This is comparable with United States sales of $848,000,000 and purchases of $230,000,000 in 1929 and $1,825,000,000 sales and $894,000,000 purchases in 1920.

The annual trade is well below the totals as far back as 1895. The United Kingdom, with which Canada the place of being the United States' greatest export customers.

POLICE CALLED IN STRIKE RIOT

DETROIT, Dec. 4. — Violence broke out anew today at the Motor Products Corporation plant, where 21 persons were injured last night, and two policemen and two strikers were added to the list of casualties.

Carrying out police orders forbidding formation of picket lines, more than three score policemen drove back 75 strikers who attempted to resume picketing of the plant's entrance.

Two policemen were struck by flying bricks. Two strikers were hit by police night-sticks as they retreated to other headquarters, less than a block from the entrance gate to the plant.

MINER PLUNGES TO HIS DEATH

NELSON, B.C., Dec. 4—Joseph Nicholson, 42, Reco Gold Mines Company employe, lost his balance and plunged 200 feet to instant death today to the bottom of a skipway in a raise at the Nugget-Motherlode property.

Nicholson, with Fred Chalk and James Ferguson, was working at the head of the skipway. He leaned over the railing at the head of the inclined timber slide to see if a fourth worker, John Ferguson, had reached the bottom of a load. He lost his balance, his fellow employes stated, and hurtled down, dying almost instantly.

ROMANCE ENDS AS GOLDFIELD TRAPPER SLAIN

Calgary Girl Shocked By Tragedy Of John Anthony

CALGARY, Dec. 4—A romance of four years had ended today for a 23-year-old housemaid, Margaret Valesko, of Calgary. Her sweetheart was John Anthony, 32-year-old trapper, slain in his cabin near Goldfields, Sask.

Shocked by the tragedy, Miss Valesko today told of her engagement to the trapper, who visited Calgary last April, and said they planned to marry in the spring when he came from his northern trap lines.

A letter she received from her sweetheart recently, she said, related Anthony had been having "wonderful luck" in his trapping venture with John Harms, his 63-year-old partner, and it indicated more definite plans for their coming marriage.

Harms, after a dangerous northern man-hunt by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, surrendered Monday. He has been charged with the murder of his young partner.

Bud Is Alive Because Pal Knew His Stuff

TRANSCONA, Man., Dec. 4—Because his pal knew where he would be if he had been Bud Hutchinson, 16-year-old Bud was safe at home last night after several lonely hours at the bottom of a 25-foot gravel pit.

"If you were Bud Hutchinson, where would you be now?" police asked Tony Gershwin when Bud had not returned home after leaving on a lonesome hike, carrying only a small hatchet and a light lunch.

Tony recalled frequent trips he and Bud had made to a gravel pit some miles from here. Over the edge of the pit hung an old rope, down which they had often climbed. "I'll bet he's there," said Tony.

Searchers hurried to the pit. At the bottom of the pit, an almost vertical with smooth sides, lay Bud. He had been uninjured when the rope broke as he was descending, but could not get out unassisted.

PRISON FIGHT AT END WHEN 3 MEN KILLED

Futile Attempt of Five to Escape Marks Tragedy

BOSTON, Dec. 4.—Three men perished today in the futile attempt of five long-term convicts to escape from the Massachusetts State prison in the Charlestown section. Four others were wounded.

William "Red" McManus, 27, serving from 21 to 24 years for armed robbery, died last night at the prison hospital. He had been wounded after a battle with prison guards, and had been identified by a prison instructor as the man who beat to death Louis Richards, 27-year-old Somerville truck driver, in the only civilian casualty.

Richards was preparing to load his truck in front of the prison print shop when the gang of convicts set on him, killed him and seized his truck.

The third to die was Philip Naples, 32, of Worcester, Mass., serving a long term for armed robbery, who died of burns as he fled to the near-by freight yard of the Boston and Maine railroad.

WAR MACHINE MAY BREAK REICH IN 18 MONTHS

LIQUID ASSETS OF NATION ARE SUNK IN SPENDING ORGY

Will Herr Nazi's pocketbook continue to stand the strain of paying for this extravagant "new Germany" now in the building? The question is answered in the following article by Frazier Hunt—the third of his uncensored cable dispatches sent to The Edmonton Bulletin from Germany.

By FRAZIER HUNT
Special to Edmonton Bulletin

BERLIN (by cable from London), Dec. 4.—Within eighteen months Germany to all intents and purposes will be broke. She will have sunk most of her liquid assets into a great army, air force and navy, an immense road program, barracks and military factories.

HUNT

Germany's present gold reserve of $20,000,000 — one-half one per cent of America's—then will be gone, and unless England or France advance loans, she will not have sufficient foods and raw materials to continue her war expansion program.

Germany's capacity for production is far ahead of her available raw materials, but she adds to these natural handicaps the world's resentment against her Jewish policy. Her latest move to conciliate is an attempt to regain world approval and break boycotts against her—but it comes very late.

2,000,000 JOBLESS WORK TO BUILD ARMY

However, even the world's continued disapproval does not check Germany's determination to build up a dominant war machine. No sacrifice is too heavy to continue industrial mobilization on a war basis.

In order to meet army expenditures of $125,000,000 a month, the government compels Germans to accept at least half of the payment due them in 96-month notes bearing 90-day coupons. In theory these bills are discountable at banks, but as the state actually controls the banks and industry, this means factories must accept pay with the 90-day periods spread over almost eight years.

All these war and semi-military expenditures represent needed capital that is frozen and unproductive. Three million persons formerly unemployed now are working on war preparations, but the fact is that here is a poor country impoverishing herself by building a military machine. Germany will face a problem in eighteen months of frankly what to do when her ready money is gone. A hungry man will not care to buy a revolver instead of food.

POLICY NULLIFIES HER BEST ASSETS

When Hitler took power in January, 1933, the world was wallowing in the depression and seven million Germans were unemployed. Germany had—and still has—three great assets: first, a commanding industrial position in the centre of Europe; second, unlimited skilled and disciplined labor; third, the finest equipment in Europe.

By demanding dollar-for-dollar trade agreements, antagonizing the Jews, interfering with other church elements and devoting her energies to building up a war army, she destroyed overnight what it had taken a generation to build.

Her 1929 world trade of nearly $3,000,000,000 dwindled to roughly $1,020,000,000. Taxes are crushingly high, business difficult and discouraging.

Germany's land and resources simply are inadequate for her ambitions. She can't grow more than 50 per cent of her normal food necessities and totally lacks many raw materials such as cotton and rubber. Under her poor soil is sufficient iron ore, copper, zinc and petroleum with plenty only of potash and coal.

AMERICAN TRADE LOST IN BOYCOTT

At the lowest estimate the Reich needs annually from North America $120,000,000 worth of cotton, gasoline, copper, sulphur, phosphates and lumber for military stores but it would be impossible to pay for these supplies. Most of her exports to America are finished goods such as toys, porcelains, mouth-organs, and fabric prints. Seventy-five per cent of German exports to America are handled through New York Jewish importers and four-fifths of this business has been lost through a boycott.

Meanwhile, she sticks out her chest and goosesteps toward an unknown fate. When the no longer can pour millions into her war factories, unemployment is certain to follow. It matters become desperate, then riots—even civil war, born of hunger—and economic collapse might come to Germany before war comes to the world.

But Germans are disciplined, the dictatorship is powerful, and Hitler may be able to hold the masses in line no matter what happens. It is conceivable that the army might some day in a crisis move against the Nazi dictatorship, but never against Hitler.

(Copyright, 1935, Edmonton Bulletin)

Hitler Has Personal Triumph

The personal popularity of Adolf Hitler with an overwhelming number of Germans may enable his dictatorship to survive an economic collapse.

B.C. SENATOR CONVICTED ON FRAUD CHARGE

Jury Makes Leniency Recommendation for Hon. A. E. Planta

NANAIMO, B.C., Dec. 4.—Senator A. E. Planta was convicted last night by an assize court jury on a charge of fraudulent conversion for his own use of a client's money. The jury added a strong recommendation for leniency.

The jury deliberated one hour and 18 minutes.

The amount involved was $500 which the senator was charged with having obtained from Henry Abo in 1931 on representations that it was for a mortgage for Mrs. Irma Bernard but which was never paid over to her.

Senator Planta conducted a financial insurance business bearing his name. The firm became bankrupt last year and was taken over by J. B. Mather, trustee in bankruptcy.

Hon. Albert E Planta was born in Australia in 1868. He came to Canada when 11 years old, settling with his family at Nanaimo where he was educated.

He was mayor of Nanaimo for eight years and held office as president of the board of trade and the school board at various terms. He was called to the senate in 1917.

If the conviction of Senator Planta is sustained his seat in the upper house will be in jeopardy. He was appointed to the senate in 1917 by the Conservative government under Sir Robert Borden.

She Comes To Front With Bang

If gentlemen feel themselves drawn to this picture, it's only a natural result of the "come hither" look flashed by charming Wini Shaw, one-time Broadway "torch" singer now making feverish progress in Hollywood. Wini exhibits the streamline coiffure she'll sport in the newest vehicle, and isn't it fetching, though?

GUNS FLASH AS WIFE GIVES GANGSTER KISS

Kidnap - Bank Robber Thugs Flee in Sensational Jail-Break

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Dec. 4.—Five heavily armed prisoners who fled the city-federal jail Tuesday leaving a sixth confederate dead and a detective chief wounded, were all believed trapped near Clayton, Okla.

That southeastern Oklahoma town became the focal point in a search of bloodhounds, airplane observers, federal agents and sheriff posses. The fugitives' car was found abandoned near Clayton, about 120 miles south of here.

Four of the quintet were Irish O'Malley gangsters, members of one of the worst kidnapping-bank robbing gangs that ever roamed the southwest.

Officers were prepared for another bloody fight like that marking the actual break in which John Blackburn, of Conover, Wis. arrested on a mail sack theft charge, was killed and Detective Chief Ben Bolton wounded dangerously.

Shortly before noon, the wife of one O'Malley gangster, Dan Heady flashed a gun.

Seizing the guns in the jail arsenal as Heady covered an attendant, these six dashed toward freedom: Heady Kilmer, Russell Cooper and Leonard Short, all O'Malley gangsters; Don Garrett, Main act violator, and Blackburn.

Detective Chief Bolton raised his gun to block the convicts' way and was shot through the head. Police Chief Marsh Corgan appeared in time to wound Blackburn fatally during the flight from prison to the automobile of the Rev. N. H. Hickman, which the fugitives commandeered.

He Defeated Macdonald At Seaham

E. SHINWELL.

Labor candidate, has defeated the erstwhile most politically powerful man in England. Shinwell defeated Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister, in Seaham district, placing the latter's political fate on chancery. HARMS TAKEN TO SCENE OF CABIN CRIME

Officer Takes Trapper With Him in Investigating Northland Killing

GOLDFIELDS, Sask., Dec. 4.—Following the peaceful surrender of John Harms, the alleged murderer of his trapping partner, Johnny Anthony, 31, Monday, to Sergeant Pat Vernon, R.C.M.P., the officer spent Monday and Tuesday in an investigation of the scene of the crime at Spring Point, 45 miles west of here.

After Pilot Lewis Leigh of Canadian Airways landed the Mounted Policeman at Singed Dog island, standing by with four other men while the trapper was captured, he returned to Fort Chipewyan. Sergeant Vernon returned to his temporary police camp on the north shore of the lake and on Tuesday took Harms to the scene of the slaying.

Dr. N. Lewis, Fort Chipewyan coroner, also arrived Tuesday and preliminary investigations were begun in the probe of the northland slaying.

Sergeant Vernon is keeping Harms with him while the scene of Anthony's death, in the little trapping cabin at Spring Point, is examined. The coroner, after investigation, will likely have Anthony's body removed to Chipewyan for a formal inquest.

Harms is reported to have shot his partner on November 23 and then to have gone to Singed Dog Island where he awaited capture by police, submitting peacefully when men with rifles advanced on the cabin.

Ex-Schoolday Sweeties, Aged 80-73 Wedded

STIRLING, Ont., Dec. 4.—Schoolboy sweethearts, Max Smith, 80, of Havelock and Mrs. Jennie Brown, 73, were married here last night at her home.

Paths of the two youthful sweethearts of 60 years ago became separated when they married. Of late years they met again, and resumed the friendship.

"I had it on the tip of my tongue to propose a dozen times," said Mr. Smith, "but never could quite get up the courage until last Friday."

The bride said: "I have always had a fond regard for Max. I know that we are going to be happy together. Maybe I will sell the home here in Stirling and Max will take a trip to Vancouver later on to visit friends."

of $300 in Mr. Mitchell's present salary of $4,800. The mayor's salary, which he voluntarily cut from $4,500 to $3,600 last year, has also been restored to $4,500 this year.

Under the recommended set-up, duties of the three commissioners would be:

1—Utilities and public works, new commissioner.

2—Finance, tax collections and civic relief, present commissioner Mitchell.

3—Publicity, fire, relief, police and remaining departments—Mayor Clarke (chairman).

TWO-FOLD PURPOSE

In placing this plan before council, Mayor Clarke declared on one time ago he had a two-fold purpose: first, to relieve the two existing commissioners of certain onerous duties; and, secondly, to give the controlling board a majority vote. In connection with the latter point, the mayor explained that under the present system of a commission board of two, commissioners could reach a deadlock which would be prevented if there were a third on the board.

Motion to recommend the new appointment was phrased by Mayor Clarke and moved by Ald. W. W. Clevely.

Urging the proposal, Ald. Clevely argued the mayor and Mr. Mitchell could not adequately deal with all civic business which came before them owing to pressure of work. Also, a third commissioner would lead to better co-operation between the departments.

MORE EFFICIENCY

More efficiency would follow the appointment, averred Mayor Clarke. The new official would be in charge of all utilities and public works. Regular and properly-constituted meetings of the commission board would be held and business dealt with more expeditiously.

It was first suggested that the committee recommend that the new commissioner be paid the same salary as the other two—$4,500 a year. This was later changed to $4,000, however, when Ald. Clevely held that if a new man should not be paid the same as the other two "until he has shown his worth."

Ald. Margaret Crang, chairman of the committee, believed the mayor and Commissioner Mitchell should receive the same salary.

TOOK CUT

Mayor Clarke explained that when he had voluntarily reduced his salary by $500 to $4,000 last year he had expected other highly-paid officials would follow suit. They hadn't, however. He explained that the $500 reduction was effective for last year only, and that the original salary of $4,500 had now been restored. It was still below the basic scale for his position, however, he maintained.

Ald. E. East thought it was a poor time to start boosting salaries, but agreed that a proper step had been taken. The matter had been restored to the mayor.

Re-organization of the land and relief department, other points in Mayor Clarke's program, was also discussed. The land department would be solely tabled for the time being and the relief branch recommendation being referred to council's special relief committee for further consideration.

The committee also recommended that a special sum of $300 a year be paid City Clerk Alfred Russell for election work and also for other night duties which he performs.

Ald. Margaret Crang suggested that council reaffirm the practice of giving preference to taxpayers for city work.

Jellicoe Memorial

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Prime Minister Baldwin will ask parliament at an early date to make financial provision for a memorial to the late Earl Jellicoe, it was rumored in the lobbies of the House of Commons last night.

MAN CARRIES MURDER SECRET TO HIS GRAVE

VIENNA, Dec. 4—General Baron Arthur von Giesl, 78, died today carrying to his grave the secret of the details of the death of Crown Prince Rudolf and the beautiful Baroness Marie Vetsera in 1889.

The Crown Prince and the Baroness Vetsera, said to be lovers, were found dead in Rudolf's hunting lodge in Mayerling. The Royal Family announced suicide, but later there were rumors of murder and political intrigue.

MAY REVISE TRADE PACT

PARIS, Dec. 4—Negotiations for revision of the Anglo-Canadian Ottawa trade agreement will begin in London shortly and may be followed by discussions between Paris and Ottawa for a new Franco-Canadian commercial treaty, it is learned on high authority.

Negotiations for revision will be taken up in London next week by Senator Raoul Dautresme, now visiting Paris, it was said. The Canadian minister has interviewed a large number of French political leaders here.

Although the minister maintained strict reserve, a well informed Dominion source indicated to Havas a new commercial treaty between France and Canada may be drawn up in the near future.

SOY BEAN KING MUST ABDICATE

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—G. Gordon Finlay, of Northwood, Ont., who won the world's soy bean championship at the Chicago Hay, Grain and Grain show this year, has arrived here to receive his awards.

And of the trophy—but a kingly crown although Finlay is called the king—becomes Finlay's permanent possession because this year's winning of the soy bean championship was his third. He will not be allowed to compete in soy beans any longer because of the limit of three championships to any one competitor.

TEST FLIGHTS PLANNED SOON

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Experimental flights between Great Britain and Canada to establish a regular plane service carrying both mail and passengers will begin soon, the air ministry has announced.

After several flights on which only mail will be carried, the regular passenger-mail service will be started with a minimum of two flights weekly in each direction.

The statement did not say what route would be followed when the service was established.

WHEAT BOARD REORGANIZED AT OTTAWA

Hon. C. A. Dunning will continue in an advisory capacity.

The new chairman will receive $18,000 a year, the same as his predecessor. The vice-chairman will be paid $15,000 and Dean Shaw $15,000. The former vice-chairman received $17,000 and Mr. Grant $15,000.

Appointment of the new personnel was made at a meeting of cabinet council late today. Action was taken following receipt of resignations of John I. McFarland, D. L. Smith and H. C. Grant, all of Winnipeg, named to the board by the former Bennett administration last August.

Mr. Murray has been vice-president and general manager of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company.

HEAD OF FACULTY

Associated with former Chairman McFarland for several years, Mr McIvor has been manager of the selling agency of the board. Dean Shaw is head of the Faculty of Agriculture of the University of Saskatchewan.

Like Mr. Murray, George H. McIvor, appointed a member of the wheat board, has been identified with the grain trade for many years. After employment with private grain companies, he became one of the assistant sales managers of the Central Selling Agency of the Wheat Pools in 1925.

In 1927, Mr. McIvor was appointed general sales manager of the Central Agency, a post which he held until John I. McFarland was appointed general manager of the pools in 1930. Mr. McIvor then became Mr. McFarland's assistant and has been closely associated with all stabilization efforts in the wheat market which Mr. McFarland undertook on behalf of the federal government.

James A. Murray, new chairman of the Dominion wheat board, has been identified with the grain trade in western Canada since 1909.

NORMAL BASIS

Coincident with announcement of reorganization of the board, the minister issued a statement expressing the intentions of the Dominion government to have Canada's wheat surplus restored to a normal basis.

The statement was as follows:

The concentration of surplus stocks of wheat in Canada during the past few years has created an abnormal situation in the world wheat trade.

Last June this situation was recognized by parliament as not being in the interests of Canada or her wheat producers, and the Dominion government desires to have our surplus restored to a normal basis. To accomplish this the wheat board will seek the goodwill and co-operation of the grain and milling trades in all importing countries.

NO FIRE SALE

It is not necessary to have, and there will not be any "fire sale" of Canadian wheat, but it will be for sale at competitive values and will not be held at exhorbitant premiums over other wheats.

At the close of the crop year last July 31, the Dominion government was involved in wheat holdings to an amount of $200,000,000 approximately. The figures were given by former premier Bennett shortly before inauguration. Since the change of government, no statement has been given out on the extent of the Dominion's obligations since that time. The new board chairman, who was present last night when the minister made his announcement, declined to make any statement on the situation.

TO SEARCH FOR POLAR FLIERS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4—Russell W. Thaw, air racer, said Tuesday he would take off Friday to aid in the search for Lincoln Ellsworth and Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, unreported on their flight across Antarctica since Nov. 23.

Thaw said he expected to reach Cape Horn off the southernmost tip of South America, in five days and make contact there with the steamship Wyatt Earp, on which are Sir Hubert Wilkins and other members of the Ellsworth expedition.

Ellsworth and his Winnipeg flight companion were last heard of when their radio communication was broken suddenly as they flew from the Atlantic to the Pacific side of Antarctica in an effort to map the little known continent.

Criminals' Faces To Go On Screen

ATLANTIC CITY, Dec. 4.—A plan to flash talking pictures of major criminals in motion picture theatres throughout the United States as an aid to police, was made known here by Supt. Norman Schwarzkopf of the New Jersey state police. Three sets of talking film will be taken of every notorious criminal, he said.

Will Get Test

CALGARY, Dec. 4.—The feasibility of the United States market for southern Alberta cattle, under Canada's new trade treaty will be given a test early in the New Year if fish has been called a brain food last night.

every man, woman and child a chance to show in some measure their appreciation of services rendered during the Great War—to see that the boys once again get a ration of the cigarettes and socks that flowed so freely in the days of 1914-1918. It is your fund, good people; it is up to you to make it grow.

Here's good news. The regimental band of the 19th Edmonton Fusiliers, under R. A. Bulloch, is arranging a concert in aid of the fund. Then don't forget "Presentations of 1930" at the Empire on Dec 13 and 14, from the proceeds of which a substantial donation will be made to the fund. Then the Army and Navy Vets are preparing a broadcast, as is Harry V. Coles, favorite concert artist.

But each individual can contribute. Send in your donation today and it will be acknowledged in these columns.

LAVAL STILL SEEKS PEACE

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Diplomatic observers say Premier Laval of France is considering calling a tri-power conference in an attempt to break the European deadlock on a search for Ethiopian peace.

M. Laval, these sources say, may invite Sir Anthony Eden, the British foreign secretary, and Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy to meet with him either in Paris or on the Riviera.

Coast Terminals To Be Reorganized

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Dec. 4.—Pacific Coast Terminals, Ltd., will be reorganized by a new company in which the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada will hold 55 per cent. of the stock, the New Westminster city council has been informed by W. B. Lanigan, Victoria, representing the mining company.

Research Ship Seeks Ellsworth

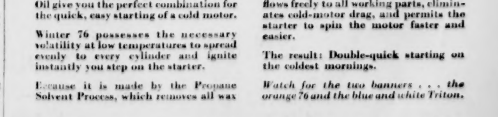

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The Royal Research Society ship Discovery II has been ordered to participate in the search for Lincoln Ellsworth and Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, explorers missing on a flight to the Antarctic, it was officially announced today.

Orders were wirelessed to the Discovery II, tender course and proceed with all possible despatch to a convenient Australian port from which the search for Ellsworth and his Canadian pilot can be undertaken.

Murder Witnesses

LANCASTER, England, Dec. 4.—The chairwoman and cook in the home of Dr. Buck Ruxton were summoned as witnesses today in the latter's hearing on charge of murdering his wife and May Jane Rogerson, nursemaid.

DOUBLE QUICK STARTING! WHEN YOU USE . . . WINTER 76 GASOLINE and Winter 76 Gasoline and Triton Motor Oil give you the perfect combination for the quick, easy starting of a cold motor.

Winter 76 possesses the necessary volatility at low temperatures to spread evenly to every cylinder and ignite instantly you step on the starter.

Because it is made by the Pressure Solvent Process, which removes all wax and low-grade, viscous materials, Triton flows freely to all working parts, eliminates cold-motor drag, and permits the starter to spin the motor faster and easier.

The result: Double-quick starting on the coldest mornings.

Watch for the two banners . . . the orange 76 and the blue and white Triton.

FIFTY COUNTRIES INVOLVED

Rome newspapers suspect Mr. Anthony Eden "put one over" Dr. Riddell and got Canada's permanent representative at Geneva to suggest the oil embargo which has had anything but a quieting effect on the troubled waters of European diplomacy.

Newspapers in Rome haven't any monopoly on that suspicion, and they can't even claim to have thought of it first. Canadians had no trouble whatever arriving at a somewhat similar state of surmise, without any help from outside sources.

Wherever the idea originated, the important point now is that the sanctions committee approved it in principle, thereby assuming responsibility on behalf of the League of Nations. It is with the League, not with Canada or Great Britain, Italy has to deal.

NEW SOURCES OF WEALTH

It is estimated that $1,500,000 have been spent in Edmonton this year for supplies and equipment for the mining fields of the north.

Development in those areas is as yet only in the initial stage. The results attained confirm belief that the deposits are both rich and vast, and will provide the basis for operations extensive beyond comparison, and also permanent.

This development represents a two-way trade, with Edmonton as the toll-gate on the road over which it must travel. The more men who find employment in the area, and the more supplies and equipment will be bought in Edmonton and shipped through Edmonton. And in the wealth that is added to the nation's store by the production of the minerals, this city will share perhaps more largely than any other community.

What the opening up of the Cobalt and Porcupine districts meant to Toronto, the opening up of the Lake Athabasca and Great Bear Lake areas will mean to Edmonton. And those are by no means the only sections of the great northland which promise to become centres of great and profitable mining activity.

PLEASE REMEMBER THEM

There are seventy-nine men over in the University Hospital suffering from injuries received in the war which ended seventeen years ago.

Last month the people of Alberta joined the peoples of all other countries engaged, in "remembering" the men who gave their lives in the titanic struggle which ended with the Armistice. Those who are old enough also recalled on that occasion the inexpressible relief that swept across Canada with the news that the war had ended and free government had been preserved.

There is no better way to honor the men who fell than by doing something to lessen the sufferings and brighten the lives of their comrades who came back crippled or broken in health. And no more practical or useful way to acknowledge the debt we owe to the fallen and the survivors alike.

The Not Forgotten fund has been opened again, as usual at this season, to provide Christmas cheer for the returned men in hospital. The appeal is one that cannot be ignored and must not be forgotten when the budget of Christmas givings is being made up.

Contributions small or large are welcomed and will be acknowledged day by day. Far better in fact a great number of small contributions than a few large ones. It is desirable that the fund be large. It is equally desirable that it should prove to the soldier patients assurances of remembrance and kindly regard from a host of their fellow-townsmen and fellow-countrymen.

IF TORONTO CAN'T, EDMONTON CAN'T

The Toronto Star corrects a statement made in these columns a couple of weeks ago that "Toronto capitalizes all unemployment relief expenditures on a five-year basis, paying nothing but interest out of the year's revenue." This, the Star explains, is not the case, in that Toronto is paying besides interest a sinking fund charge to retire the bonds when due, plus of course the cost of distributing the relief.

Since the information concerning Toronto was taken from an editorial published in the Star a week or so earlier, it is a bit tough that the Bulletin is blamed because the information was not correct.

It is, the Star thinks, a weak and cynical argument that Edmonton should go into debt for obligations it has shown itself able to meet out of revenue, in hope that some day the Dominion may have to pay. But the point is Edmonton has not shown itself able to meet relief costs out of revenue, any more than Toronto has done so.

Edmonton has only tried to do that—and wound up at the end of each year with a deficit as large or larger than the costs, which successive deficits are now carried as floating debt and will eventually have to be converted into fixed debt. The difference is that Toronto, with better judgment, did not even try to meet its costs out of revenue, but capitalized them year by year—admission and proof that it could not so meet them.

Besides costs of administration, which both cities pay or try to pay out of revenue, Edmonton is this year attempting to pay $450,000 relief costs, while Toronto, with eight times the population and a hundred times the wealth, is paying only $1,017,124 on relief account.

If Toronto is paying relief on a proportionate scale, and were paying it out of revenue, its relief bill for the present year would be $3,600,000. But because it capitalizes relief, Toronto's relief taxation averages $1.60 per head of population. Edmonton's relief taxation amounts to $3.60 per head of population.

If Toronto is justified in capitalizing its relief costs on the ground that it cannot pay these out of revenue, what is weak or cynical in the suggestion that Edmonton should do the same thing?

Poems That Live

TO DAISIES, NOT TO SHUT SO SOON

Shut not so soon; the dull-eyed night
Has not as yet begun
To make a seizure on the light,
Or to seal up the sun.

No marigolds yet closed are,
No shadows great appear;
Nor doth the early shepherd's star
Shine like a spangle here.

Stay but till my Julia close
Her life-begetting eye,
And let the whole world then dispose
Itself to live or die.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

War is in the air. It will be largely a war in the air. Already our neighbor to the south is planning to put his great aviation fields under ground for safety.

At present, great military fields like the Hamilton Field in California, with ten great airdromes and aviation workshops, would be an inviting target for an enemy bomb. A few well-placed bombs in this great field, just back of the Golden Gate, would place it and squadrons of airplanes out of action.

J. S. Cowper

We live in an age when every great ocean has been crossed by airplanes.

To meet this menace from the air, some mud-hole Gibraltars are to be built. Ultra-modern sanctuaries for the falcons of the air, will be built underground—fortresses of steel and concrete, built to withstand the concentrated fire of bombs and shells. In addition to hangars they will comprise machine shops for repair work, barracks for the men and concealed anti-aircraft guns. The ramps to the surface will be capable of being sealed against poison gas and chemical warfare, and there will be air-conditioning plants.

In the case of seaplanes, some of the fortresses will be blasted out of rocky cliffs on the seafront, making safe hiding places in which the seaplanes can lurk or seek shelter at all stages of the tide.

People may be stupid in regard to the need for an economic system to fit the age of technology, to enable them to live well; they are seized with the need of being up to date in the matter of killing each other.

Some of the newest means of defence from aircraft attack have been discussed in this column—the eight-chambered anti-aircraft guns of the British Navy which a Labor Lord of the Admiralty let leak during the recent general election in England, and the system of mechanical and electrical aircraft detection, location, calculation for speed, elevation and automatic firing.

Nothing disclosed by Howard Scott of recent advances in industrial machinery is more wonderprovoking than these radio eyes that peer into the blackness of the darkest night and operate stratosphere cannon that can hurl shells 70,000 feet into the stratosphere—to about the same elevation as the two American balloonists recently attained.

An anti-aircraft device that has attracted quiet attention in military circles is the De Christmas flash gun. It has no connection with Santa Claus. It is a French invention designed to inflict temporary blindness on hostile aviators, similar to the temporary blindness most of us have experienced when facing a photographer's magnesium flare.

The De Christmas flash gun uses a large charge of powder which explodes in a flare of so many billion light units that the beam of an 800 million candle-power searchlight is said to look like a candlewick by comparison.

These terrific light charges are places in the centres of deep reflectors, with diameters ranging from fifty to two hundred feet. The flare they throw into the sky is so bright that it would temporarily blind airmen flying into it, long enough to send their planes out of commission.

Numerous reports have been circulated of mystery rays, powerful enough to short the electrical ignition systems of airplane engines. One inventor has tackled the problem in another way. He has invented an invisible smoke which carries gummy particles. These when sucked through the carbureters of engines will put them out of commission. The invisible smoke is shot into the air in bombs into the onward path of the enemy plane.

Bombing as practised in the Great War was largely a night matter. An ingenious system of protection by fine steel cables suspended by small balloons has been devised. The balloons rise to a height of three miles, carrying a system of fine steel cables resembling piano wires. For the propeller of an airplane to become entangled in one of those wires, would have the same effect as when a rope gets entangled around the propeller shafts of power boat—if indeed it did not instantly cut off the blades and render the ship helpless and bring it down out of control.

Most of the war preparations in the world today are admittedly because "the war to end war" didn't end war. The Treaty of Versailles was filled with grievances: the League of Nations, designed to ensure peace, was left without even the support of the nation whose president conceived it, and insisted on its adoption.

It's a pity that some of the French statesmen who officiated at Versailles were not better grounded in their nation's history. A hundred years before Versailles, the victor of Waterloo was chosen by the nations allied against Napoleon to make terms of peace. Napoleon had ravaged every country on the mainland of Europe from Portugal to Russia. He had collected pictures and statuary and stripped the art of Europe to Paris. The victorious allies wanted to exact vengeance on France. But the victor of Waterloo held otherwise. In a letter to Metternot he said:

"La France n'a pas d'ennemis je connais . . . Nous sommes les ennemis d'un seul homme, et de ses adherens."

Napoleon and his adherents, not France, would be regard as enemies. He stopped the Prussians from blowing up a Paris bridge, named for Napoleon's victory over the Prussians at Lena. He refused to dismember France, saying:

"My objection to the demand of a great cession from France is that it will defeat the object which the Allies have held out to themselves in the present and preceding wars. . . .

"In my opinion we ought to continue to keep our great object, the genuine peace and tranquility of the world, in our view, and shape our arrangements so as to provide for it."

He shrewdly advised that the troops for the army of occupation should be selected from those sovereigns "who would have least inclination to remain in possession of the fortresses at the termination of the period."

Pity that the Wellingen spirit didn't actuate the squabbling diplomats of Versailles.

More About X-Rays

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

In yesterday's article on X-rays, I explained how the fluoroscopic screen is used in studying the stomach and large intestine. Without the fluoroscope you can not study the outline of the stomach for yourself, you can not tell if that outline is made abnormal by stomach ulcers, or whether the stomach has fallen, because the organ is covered up with various tissues which interfere with seeing; but with the fluoroscope, the shadow of the stomach becomes plainly visible.

Dr. F. McCoy

The fluoroscope is of great value in studying the moving organs of the body, such as the stomach, the large intestine, the heart and the lungs. Wherever we find vital organs that are moving, it is preferable to study them with the fluoroscope. The lungs move during breathing, the heart moves during the heart beat, and the stomach and large intestine move during peristalsis. While this activity is going on, the fluoroscope may be used in perfect freedom to study that activity.

The fluoroscope is of particular value in studying enclosed organs. Through its use, the examining doctor can tell if the stomach and large intestine have fallen. Also, it is during the fluoroscopic examination that the presence of adhesions is confirmed. During the time that the patient is under the fluoroscope it is not possible to see the adhesions but they may be located by reaching into the abdomen and moving the organs with the fingers. When the examining doctor finds a spot which is limited in movement, remaining fixed or tight, he knows that he has located adhesions. Certainly, adhesions are discoverable by the fluoroscopic examination. I suggest that when adhesions are present and manipulative treatment is being given for them, that the fluoroscopic examination be repeated every month or six weeks, and such an examination will show definitely the improvement being made. Also, later examinations will show that the protapsed organs are being raised closer to their normal positions. With the fluoroscopic equipment, the doctor has a method of keeping track of the improvement of the patient.

Incidentally, as a general rule, the patient is greatly interested in the findings of the fluoroscopic examination which is only natural, for we all want to know how our vital organs are performing. Naturally, there is going to be a certain increase in interest when it is your stomach, or your heart, or your lungs that are being studied.

When the examining doctor has reason to believe that any abnormal condition is present, he may order X-ray pictures made, which pictures form a permanent record. X-rays act upon a photographic plate in the same that ordinary light will act upon it and thus X-rays may be used in making pictures. One year after the discovery of X-rays, a 20 minute exposure of the arm was required to get a good picture, now a far better picture is obtained through an exposure lasting only a fraction of a second.

X-ray pictures are made of bones, teeth, the stomach, the chest, the intestinal tract, the kidneys, the gall bladder and so on. Suspected tumors of the brain will sometimes be proven to be actually present through taking X-ray pictures.

X-rays are of undoubted value in establishing the correct diagnosis of disease and with the X-ray findings before him, the doctor becomes more sure of the opinion he has experienced by the patient. I regard a combination of the fluoroscopic examination and X-ray pictures as a very necessary part of any complete examination. The results secured far more than make up for the time needed in giving the patient the benefit of this particular study.

If you are troubled about your health and want to know what is wrong, have an X-ray examination.

Horoscope

By MARY BLAKE

On December 5 personal actions, in all probability will set the standard by which the average person will be judged. Business transactions are likely to prove very profitable, especially those involving perishable goods. Social activities, to be successful, should be conservative. Those who are engaged couples, and those who have been stimulated by love, must be careful this day that affection is not swept away on the tides of tempestuous emotions.

If a woman and December 5 is your birthday, you ought to be able to solve other people's problems and help them to solve some of their perplexing problems. You will find that faith is the one thing that can sustain you when everything else seems to fail to meet your need. You perhaps will find it very simple to overcome any financial difficulties that may arise. As a receptionist, hostess, lawyer, doctor, trained nurse, newspaper woman or librarian you may find the most congenial line of work. Marriage possibly will bring to many unexpected couplings, and

The child born on December 5 usually, when it reaches school age, shows it has quick powers of discernment. The most important lesson for it to learn is not to be too impulsive. Also, if you are born December 5 in your natal day, you may be a little too visionary for your own good. The quicker you realize we are living in a practical age, the better progress you will make.

A friendship that makes the least noise is very often the most useful; for which reason I should prefer a prudent friend to a zealous one.—Addison.

SIDE GLANCES — By George Clark

"I swear I don't know which party I favor any more. My business hasn't been much good since Lincoln was President."

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1865 Richard John Cartwright was born at Kingston, Upper Canada. Belonging to one of the real first families of Ontario he was the grandson of Richard Cartwright who came up from Albany, N.Y., and soon assumed a leading position in the "upper country", and on the creation of Upper Canada was called to the first legislative council. His grandson was sent to Trinity College, Dublin, to be educated for a public career and at the age of 28 was elected to the Canadian Assembly. From that time until he was called to the Senate in 1904 he was a leader in politics, a man detested by his opponents and admired by his friends. He was never loved in the sense that other leaders were; his character did not permit of familiarity, but as a political power his influence was great. Originally a Conservative as became his upbringing, he separated from that party largely because of hostility to John A. Macdonald and, it was alleged, because he was passed over when Sir John was choosing his finance minister in 1869 and chose Francis Hincks. Cartwright never forgot that slight; its effect bittered all his later life.

Minister of Finance in the cabinet of Alexander Mackenzie, 1873-78, he had to bear the brunt of the unpopularity which hard times brought and this made him still less liked. At one time mentioned as a possible leader of the Liberal party on succession to Edward Blake he was passed over in favor of Wilfrid Laurier. Another disappointment, perhaps the bitterest blow of all was when Laurier in 1896 refused to give him back the finance portfolio, which went to W. S. Fielding, and Cartwright had to be content with the Trade and Commerce portfolio. To his credit be it said, he kept faith with Laurier and fought hard for the party but his whole life was a series of disappointments. Perhaps the greatest debater the House of Commons ever saw, he justified Laurier's eulogy when he said that "Cartwright was the most finished speaker in the House. He was a master of classic diction and it was a pleasure to listen to the fluent, precise faultless English of his most impromptu utterances". Cartwright's closing years were marked by much physical suffering due to rheumatism, but to the end of the Laurier regime he was an admirable leader in the Senate. He was a good Canadian and his memory should not be forgotten on this hundredth anniversary of his birth.

WHY THE DELAY?

Editor, Bulletin: If our council has agreed to five for a quarter tickets, why do we have to wait six weeks for them, surely there is more than one way that we could start, at least by the first of December.

Commissioner Mitchell makes the excuse about printing them—just a lot of bosey. Surely a strip of four tickets could be handed out and a loose one dropped in the box. If our Commissioner gets his way and holds off the five for a quarter tickets until the beginning of the year, then there is a drop in the revenue. Our objecting councillors will say I told you so. Surely amongst our city officials some one can think out a plan to start this by the first of December. The people that need the five for a quarter, might have a few more cents to spend at Christmas.

LIVE AND LET LIVE

Editor, Bulletin: What is the League of Nations wishing for? It seems to us some of us that it is working to give us ordinary people spiritual freedom, so that the individual can develop his life and her best way, in a humane manner. Each baby born into this world has its own characteristics born in it, and its parents have a right to give it their best moral ideas and educate it to suit its own living. All the great religions of the world such as Confucianism, Buddhism, Hinduism perhaps and last and best, we hope, Christianity have the rule, "Do to others, as you would have them do to you." This is also Utopian socialism. We are not all alike, neither men nor women, boys or girls, and no one has any right to force us suddenly into his way of thinking and acting. Of course we have to live and learn, (and earn, incidentally).

TECHNOCRAT'S THANKS

Editor, Bulletin, Greetings: Mr. Howard Scott, director-in-chief of Technocracy Inc. has instructed me to express his appreciation of the reception given to him by those who attended the meeting at the Empire theatre on Friday, Nov. 23. He asks me to express his regrets to those who owing to the limitations of the seating capacity were unable to get in.

He hopes that it will be possible for him to visit Edmonton again during the summer of next year when every endeavor will be made to give everyone possible a chance to hear what he has to say.

He also wishes to thank those who made it possible for him to make this visit and he feels sure that no small number of the people of Edmonton will agree with him in that.

He also would like it to be known that there is only one genuine organization connected with him or with the research work he and his associates are doing and that is Technocracy Inc.

Salute,

SPEED IN VICTORIA

It may be safely estimated that nine out of ten fast motor drivers do not need the speed at which they operate. Apart from the medical profession, the firemen and policemen, there are very few people who are confronted with emergencies existing that they have to drive their vehicles at an excessive rate. We know some who are complaining that business conditions are not at all what they used to be, but the same rush to their work in motor cars as if they were a mill-dollar [illegible] prize-money in the balance. Others make social calls at the rate of a mile a minute. If protective host or hostess were in danger of expiring if they were a minute late, perhaps, in this way, the host and hostess would not worry if they were a year late.—Victoria Times.

Danger To Reciprocity Is In Details Of Administration

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

The old records show that when the Canadian provinces had a very profitable reciprocity treaty with the United States, it was killed by petty annoyances in administration. Duty changes, and arguments over classifications, and official annoyances generally, gave the opponents of reciprocity in the United States sufficient grievances upon which to convince Congress that the treaty should be killed. It was killed.

The same danger exists today. We have for the last five years entrusted the carrying out of customs details in Canada to men trained to regard importing as a crime. It is too much to expect that they will be able to change their attitude over night; and therefore it is imperatively and urgently necessary that such transfers and changes be made in the custom service as will place administration of the details of the reciprocity treaty in the hands of men who have no personal hatred of reciprocity and no direct contact with the special privilege which will organize to destroy reciprocity.

The danger is very real; and the necessary precautions should be taken before and not after administration arguments arise.

With All My Love

By Mary Raymond

BEGIN HERE TODAY

After the death of her parents, lovely DANA WESTBROOK, child of her mother, second marriage, comes to America to live with her grandmother, MRS. WILLIAM CAMERON.

Dana's half-sister, NANCY WALLACE, feels resentful toward Dana.

Mrs. Cameron secretly hopes Dana will wish to remain in America. She is elated when rich RONALD MOORE becomes interested in her pretty granddaughter.

Lonely Nancy masks her love for Ronald behind an antagonistic attitude.

Meanwhile, Dana and DR. SCOTT STANLEY become enamored of each other. PAULA LONG, desperately in love with Scott, watches his interest in Dana deepen.

Dana is caught in a storm. Scott overtakes her and carries her to his home, nearby.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

DANA repeated Scott's words, her eyes widening. "This is where you live—? But how—?"

"I was looking out the window," he told her, "and cursing my luck to have a storm like this come up while there are in the shop. And then I saw you. There wasn't anything to do but go after you."

Dana was looking about the room. It was wide and cozy, with easy chairs, a fireplace and book-shelves filled with books. An old room, Dana saw, but it had escaped drabbiness. It even had a pleasant air of a sort, with its mellow wood paneling. The rugs were old, but they had once been good. A lamp glowed cheerfully on the table where books and magazines were scattered.

She nodded appreciatively. "It's a nice room."

Scott said, "I wanted you to like it. And now we'll have to find you something and get you out of those wet things. I'll build a fire to dry your dress and shoes. Then I'll call a taxi."

"Oh, no," Dana protested. "If you have a coat you can lend me I'll just slip it over my dress."

"Listen." Scott said firmly, "I'm a doctor, but I don't want you as a pneumonia patient." And he threw open the door of the adjoining room. "You'll find a dressing robe in the closet."

Dana found herself obeying. She stepped into the room and caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror. Her wet hair straggling across her white cheeks, her face pale as the sodden ball atop her head. Her dress clung to her body. Water was oozing from each shoe and sandal. Scott was probably right; she might be ill if she didn't change. And Scott was mighty uncomfortable being wringing wet.

Dana emerged a few minutes later in a gayly striped dressing robe, wrapped about her slim body and securely tied. On her feet were Scott's bedroom slippers.

"I thought," she explained, "that as long as I was ordered to change I might as well put on these, too."

A grin spread over Scott's face. Dana said, a little ruefully, "I know I'm funny-looking."

"Yes, you are," Scott agreed. "But even in that outfit you're quite adorable. I'm going now to change my suit. Back in a jiffy, another one."

While Scott was dressing Dana spread her wet dress on the brass fender and placed her shoes near the fire.

Scott returned quickly, having contrived, somehow, to look immaculate without undue haste and still groomed. He went to the telephone and called a number.

Dana had his voice protesting. "But this is an emergency. I've got to have a taxi. Get one out here and I'll make it worth your while."

He hung up and called another number, with no greater success. Then he came to the door, and stood there, frowning a little.

Dana sat on a footstool near the fire, the light bringing out the bronze gleams in her hair. She looked very slight and boyish with the man's robe belted about her. Her feet hid in Scott's leather bedroom slippers.

"All the taxi places say they have a call for a long time. I mean an hour's wait, at least."

Dana said cheerfully, "Well, that's all right—now that I'm good and dry."

"I was all kinds of an idiot to bring you here." Scott said slowly. "Regardless of the fact that you are an engaged man's fiancée, I'm going to have to get you home in a hurry. While we're waiting for your dress to dry and the cab just to shrink I'll stir up some eggs and make coffee. Sorry there's not much else to offer—the only meal I have here is breakfast, and I didn't foresee that my car would be in the shop at the same time the elements would choose to play the devil."

The elements were still playing the devil, Dana thought. Rain was pouring against the window-panes as though a giant hand were dashing buckets of water from above. Now and then there was a roar of thunder, followed by vivid streaks of lightning. But there was a feeling of security in the cozy, unpretentious room with the firelight playing softly on the dining surface of old wood and bringing out the warm tones of the rug.

"Let me help," Dana offered.

"Can you cook?"

"Try me," Dana boasted. "Nobody can make a better omelet. It's one of my specialities."

"Just for that bragging I'm going to turn the kitchen over to you," Scott said.

"All right. But first I'll call Grandmother and tell her not to worry."

She got Aunt Ellen on the phone. The receiver against her ear crackled alarmingly, followed by an ominous roar of thunder.

Dana said quickly, "I'm having dinner with a friend, Aunt Ellen. I'll be home later."

It wasn't possible to go into details with a storm roaring about one's ears. Besides it would require a lot of explaining to tell the whole story. No use worrying them all for nothing. When they heard just how it had all happened they couldn't blame her.

Newspapers next day were to record that the storm was one of the worst that had struck the town in years, to describe the uprooting of trees and how tops were lifted from frail houses and lines of communication blown down. Floods of water had poured tempestuously over the city.

Scott and Dana gaily prepared their "breakfast dinner." Scott discovered some strawberry jam in the icebox to add to the meal of eggs, coffee, bacon and thin golden toast.

A terrific crash of thunder, following a vivid streak of lightning, sent Dana running to Scott. For a moment her head was hidden against his shoulder.

"Steady, there," came Scott's reassuring voice, his arm tightening about her.

Dana lifted a white face. "And I've always said I liked Mother Nature in a good mood," she said.

"Mother Nature's got a jag on tonight." Scott said thoughtfully. He still had his arm around her, but dropped it abruptly. "The old girl's drunk with power. It has just occurred to me that I didn't put my house number on that mileage list—though I doubt if taxis will be navigating in a storm like this."

He was gone quite a while. When he returned his expression was grim.

"The phone's out," he said. "Dana, I'm afraid this is serious. If the storm doesn't let up—"

"Don't worry," Dana said, trying not to reveal her own concern. "It can't be very late. It can't keep up much longer."

"You'd think it would have blown itself out long ago with such violence. But you never can tell—"

There wasn't a doubt that Scott was worried, Dana thought. Even it was all her fault. Aunt Ellen had warned her there was likely to be a storm but she had ignored the warning.

Scott said dryly, "Storm or no storm, folks aren't very charitable."

"Gossip, you mean?"

"Gossip candidly—whatever you want to call it. That wouldn't be so very nice for you, Dana."

"Or for you," Dana said gravely. "After all, you're starting a career and people might be prejudiced against a doctor mixed up in a scandal."

Scott shook his head. "That's all right—but the world of 'they would' fall on you." He considered her, frowning.

Dana's natural optimism came to her rescue. "Let's not get upset before we've eaten dinner. Anyway,

Outlook Is Real Sunny For Doris

Sunning on a Honolulu beach, Doris Duke Cromwell appears the picture of happiness. And why not? Hawaiian sunshine, a flowery beach suit, one of the biggest incomes in the world, and the return from New York of her financier-husband, James Cromwell, whom she married last February—all contribute to the contentment of the "world's richest girl."

TO BUILD TRIO NEW CRUISERS

LONDON, Dec. 4—Unless an agreement is reached at the forthcoming naval conference three 35,000-ton battle cruisers may be built from the proceeds of the new government bond issues, high admiralty circles declare.

These sources said the ships would be of the same tonnage as the battle cruiser Renown.

The new bond issue announced Monday totals £300,000,000 ($1,458,000,000)—was said that about £90,000,000 will be allotted to national defence.

TEACHERS TO DISCUSS PAY WITH BOARD

F. C. Casselman Gives Acid Comment on Request for Smaller Cuts

With teachers calling for a return of part of the cuts taken last year and trustees declaring that a lowered assessment and probable lowering of the mill rate will necessitate reduction of school costs through downward revision of salaries, members of the public school board Tuesday night decided that the smoke could best be cleared by a conference which will be held Tuesday next.

When the teachers, through A. P. Hedges, their official affiliation representative, submitted a request for lessening of the present cuts, observing that business showed an upward trend, Trustee F. C. Casselman countered with the statement that business in northern Alberta was at a standstill and suggested that "the teachers had better take cognizance of the things that are going on around them."

MOVES 1931 SCALE

A resolution by Trustee Dr. W. Morrish that any salary adjustments necessary for the 1936 budget be made on a basis of the agreement of the present schedule rather than by a new schedule be placed on the agenda for the conference was passed.

The motion also stated that no salary be reduced below $1,200 a year and that the basis of adjustment for the 1936 budget may be made on the 1931 salary schedule, which would mean that all increments received since that time would be taken off before percentage reductions were applied. Any further reductions should be made in teaching time, the motion suggested, not to exceed 20 days in the public school and 10 days in the high school.

A motion by Trustee Casselman, that adjustment be made on the basis of a new schedule, already drawn up for consideration, was also referred to the conference.

SURPLUS LAST YEAR

"I believe we should ask for this same amount of money for our schools as we had last year," Dr. Morrish told the board Tuesday night, "but no more. At the present time, however, we are faced with an increase in costs as we have the salary increments to consider.

"Last year we also had a revenue surplus of $52,000 which is not available this year.

"We have been more generous with our employees than conditions warranted. They should be treated just as well as, but no better than, other government employees. Provincial employees have had no increments since 1931. Therefore we should go back to the 1931 basis, plus small percentage reductions."

Trustee Casselman suggested that the board in each fiscal year would likely be expected to assume its share of the burden if the mill rate was reduced to 30 mills, pointing out that the whole basis of taxation was lowered by a reduction of $2,000,000 in the property assessment.

SAYS NOT RESPONSIBLE

"I don't think we should hold ourselves responsible for the rash promises of city officials," declared Trustee S. Bowcott declared. "No candidate on the school board was elected to office on a platform of cuts, and for myself I said I was opposed to any cutting of wages."

"Let me help!" Dana offered.

"Can you cook?"

"Try me," Dana boasted. "Nobody can make a better omelet. It's one of my specialities."

"Just for that bragging I'm going to turn the kitchen over to you," Scott said.

"All right. But first I'll call Grandmother and tell her not to worry."

Dana's natural optimism came to her rescue. "Let's not get upset before we've eaten dinner. Anyway, it just isn't possible for such a torrent to last much longer."

They drew the table before the fire on which was burning brightly, the wood crackling merrily as though in defiance of the gloomy elements.

Later they washed the dishes, dried them, and then came back to the living room.

Scott tried the telephone again and reported failure. Meanwhile Dana had put on her dress and sandals, which she declared were perfectly dry.

Once Scott opened the front door but met such a wild reception from the gale's furies outside that he closed it quickly. He came over to the fire and sat down near Dana. She looked weak and courageous, he thought, seemingly unconscious of her rumpled linen frock, of her lovely eyes shining so calmly. Any other girl he knew, in a similar situation, would be having hysterics.

Scott said slowly, "I'm afraid a taxi couldn't get here even if we could call one. The worst of it is, this hurricane may blow all night."

TEACHERS TO DISCUSS PAY WITH BOARD

F. C. Casselman Gives Acid Comment on Request for Smaller Cuts

With teachers calling for a return of part of the cuts taken last year and trustees declaring that a lowered assessment and probable lowering of the mill rate will necessitate reduction of school costs through downward revision of salaries, members of the public school board Tuesday night decided that the smoke could best be cleared by a conference which will be held Tuesday next.

SURPLUS LAST YEAR

"I believe we should ask for this same amount of money for our schools as we had last year," Dr. Morrish told the board Tuesday night, "but no more. At the present time, however, we are faced with an increase in costs as we have the salary increments to consider.

"Last year we also had a revenue surplus of $52,000 which is not available this year.

SAYS NOT RESPONSIBLE

"I don't think we should hold ourselves responsible for the rash promises of city officials," declared Trustee S. Bowcott declared. "No candidate on the school board was elected to office on a platform of cuts, and for myself I said I was opposed to any cutting of wages."

"Come with me and I'll show you my salaries," Mr. Casselman replied, "but we might as well face the situation in advance before we find ourselves without enough money to pay anybody. We have received a 30 mill rate was a wise move.

Trustee A. E. Ottewell, chairman, stated that the reduction in the property assessment, with the 1935 school millrate of 24.70, would mean a revenue of $1,100,000, or $77,000 less than was received for the present year.

Applied to the 1931 scale, with the same percentage reduction as taken by the government servants, would mean a reduction of $43,000 from the 1935 payroll or $53,000 from the 1936 total, with present increments, Mr. Ottewell said.

REQUEST OF TEACHERS

Declaring that business indices were rising and that there was a trend toward increased salaries throughout the country, the teachers' brief was submitted, asking a basic salary of $1,16 [illegible] per cent, 9½ per cent. instead of 11½ per cent., 11¼ instead of 13½ and 12 1/2 instead of 15.

"Was this request drawn up before the floods struck the district, crops of northern Alberta or after?" Mr. Casselman asked, with a tinge of acid in his tone.

"After the frost," Mr. Tingley replied.

"Then I think the teachers had better take cognizance of what is going on around them." Mr. Casselman answered. "Business in northern Alberta at the present time is at a standstill."

All members of the board will be present at the conference next Tuesday.

High Mortality In Maternity Is Pointed Out

OTTAWA, Dec. 4—Urgent need for a campaign to reduce the high maternal death rate in this country was voiced last night by Dr. W. B. Chipman of Montreal, emeritus professor of obstetrics and gynecology at McGill University, in an address before the Canadian Welfare Council here.

In an average year 230,000 babies were born in Canada, and in the process 2,200 mothers died and 23,000 were more or less permanently disabled, Dr. Chipman said.

He attributed the present Canadian maternal death rate to inadequate care of the mother during pregnancy in 58 per cent. of cases, lacking of nursing or hospital facilities in 10 per cent, carelessness of the patient in 18 per cent. and mistakes on the part of physician, nurse or midwife in 36 per cent.

Changing Signals Of Government Direct New Ministers To Parliament

By LOTTA C. DEMPSEY

OTTAWA, Dec. 4—Canada's capital city is suffering from the worst traffic jam of years. With Prime Minister Mackenzie King still in absentia at the main intersection, and the new cabinet ministers at other cross-roads, the "stop" and "go" signals are flashing rapidly. There are many newcomers, for all roads lead to the parliament buildings, and longer or shorter parking privileges are greatly in demand.

If I had thought the City of the Mont High was seething with subterranean activity in the spring, prior to election, I discovered that the lid is off today, and those who go out, sighing, make way for the privileged ones greatly in demand.

Rumors grow from every slender suggestion, and "they" do say, in some quarters, that if the Big Chief should hand over reins of office to any of his men Friday, it is near or two, the Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance and former premier of Saskatchewan, will step up and take control. At any event, the former westerner is key man in the new cabinet and his secretary, Miss Lotta Craig, who took dictation from three consecutive premiers of Saskatchewan, is one of the busiest of dozens of busy people in the buildings. While I was lunching with her in the well known Chateau Grill, where all the world of Canada can be found at one time or another, a prominent westerner came up and said, laughingly: "I'm not looking for a job today," and she answered, "You're the first person I've seen who isn't."

While I was enjoying a first-hand view of new cabinet ministers, recently appointed government officials and others who have taken up arms with the changing of the guard, the westerners stopped to chat at the door. They were Col. George B. McLeod and J. J. Frawley, K.C. The latter had arrived a few days ago from Edmonton for the Dominion gasoline investigation, which is coming to a head in Ottawa after being held in various provinces since spring. Alberta's assistant to the attorney general has been in fighting mood as he cross-examines officials of the Imperial Oil company.

WOMAN AIDS OIL PROBE

I sat in on part of the probe one afternoon at the soundproof room assigned National Research building. An interesting figure was Mrs. Phyllis Taylor, only woman connected with the investigation. Looking very attractive in a gay yellow knitted suit, neat cuffs and collar and violet-colored eyes, she was a decorative as well as capable figure. As research assistant for the government, she has been working on the gasoline question since she began travelling in Alberta, Saskatchewan, British Columbia, Manitoba and finally, Ontario. When I met the unrivalled individuals as Dr. E. R. Lederer, German scientist and quarrel authority on petroleum products, give evidence, as an independent witness, ready to follow him and check on every reference. A brilliant scientist, she is an honor graduate from the University of British Columbia in economics, and a scholarship winner from Bryn Mawr. She studied in Germany and in the London School of Economics, as winner of a Women's University Federation scholarship.

Other interesting oil executives on Ottawa for the probe have been Mr. A. E. Halvorsen, general sales manager for Canada of the International Oil. It is pointed out to me that an expert will have a watching brief from home; and that no industry should be "pushed to either inefficiency or excessive profits." Dr. Oliver B. Hopkins, chief geologist for the company, Mr. Henstrom of New York, refinery superintendent, are also in attendance. Dr. Lederer, the boy, has recently completed a comprehensive oil survey of the United States, and was a key man in the N.R.A. His government agent is not always a help in the investigation. The other day he was asked about "Who's Who" and after some puzzling, one of the provincial representatives asked what kind that was, and then discovered that he was merely referring to an over-dose of motor fuel.

Which reminds me that one easterner suggested I write something about Alberta coffee, and I pointed out that sport news wasn't in my line; he looked puzzled, and explained that he thought those were little animals of the prairies . . . displayed.

POPULARITY OF LORD TWEEDSMUIR

"I would not be surprised to see Lord Tweedsmuir Canada's most popular man before long," was the statement of an able newspaperman, listening to the first address of the new Governor-General. A wave of affection and admiration for the newcomers to Rideau Hall is sweeping over easterners as Their Excellencies pay their first visits. It seemed quite natural that one of the first unofficial calls of Their Excellencies should be upon the Honorable Alistair Buchan, should be to the Parliamentary Library and their old friend of years, Honorable Martin Burrell, librarian.

I was interested to learn from a government official the other day that a woman from the northwest had telephoned to Canada for news about a situation existing in the Peace River district. She had decided that the Lady Tweedsmuir, and Her Excellency had suggested that it be brought to the attention of the government; which would indicate that the First Lady is going to take a keen interest in affairs Canadian.

RE TITLES

Although there was perhaps some small feeling that Lord Tweedsmuir might have quite satisfactorily carried on the duties of his high post as plain John Buchan, I did agree with some Ottawa people that it would have appeared a little strange to see His Excellency the Governor-General and Mrs. Buchan will receive . . .

In any event, there is no doubt about the popularity of the Tweedsmuirs, and His Excellency's address to the Montreal Canadian Club will no doubt go down in Canadian history. His idea that the opinion of the man on the street was quite as valuable as that of the expert, since the latter tended to become too remote and scientific, indicated the democratic strain of thought of the new Governor-General.

So far, it appears that few changes will be made in the smooth running machinery of Government House, in spite of new aides and secretaries I was interested to notice, at the colorful reception at the National Gallery the other night, that the aides-de-camp to His Excellency, wear evening dress with plain white satin lapels to distinguish them from the others of the assemblage.

Just in passing, there's something completely gay and light-hearted about the manner in which French and English versions of old favorites are sung by crowds of patrons in Montreal night clubs, as a late hour approaches, and long intermissions between dances are filled with singing. And I thought the white cross straps on the traffic officers' uniforms were a hang-over from French days, in Montreal, for they had a continental look but discovered they were a safety measure to make the policeman stand out against the darkness.

Bridge For Creche Well Attended

Benefitting the work of the Edmonton Creche, the bridge party of 40 tables arranged by the Seneca Club in the Hudson's Bay dining room on Thursday evening, was extremely successful. Seneca Club members form an important auxiliary to the work of the Creche board, and this largely attended social affair was most popular.

Lady Rodney, president of the board, and Mrs. William J. Clink, vice-president, drew for the prize winners, who were Mrs. H. Morrison and Mrs. B. Dobson. Corsages of roses were presented to Lady Rodney and Mrs. Dick from the club.

Mrs. J. F. Battersby was convener for the affair assisted by Mrs. Ray Tibbey, Mrs. A. Johnson, and Mrs. J. H. Moore.

Among those present were:

Mrs. A. C. Fleming, Mrs. D. McLelland, Mrs. A. G. Smith, Mrs. H. Pinkerton, Miss J. Pinkerton, Miss H. Cushmore, Miss E. Cameron, Miss E. Bennie, Mrs. Ray Tibbey, Mrs. Clive Gilbertson, Mrs. J. the social round . . . . .

PENNSYLVANIA may have its white capped Mennonites, but it has also its white capped cooks who know many of culinary arts that betray them from behind the smoke screens of any cafe or dining place it is claimed, or through the vapors of the soups in the biggest kitchens of any metropolis! A visitor, whose birthplace was Pennsylvania, was remarking that she went to breakfast in one of the large American hotels in one of the biggest cities of the western United States, and ordered buckwheats with maple syrup. When the dish was set before her, she took one taste, recognized the inevitable flavor, and summoning the waiter, said: "I beg your pardon, but I want no coal tar cooks from Pennsylvania."

The waiter looked amazed, but agreed to inquire. A few minutes later he returned, and to the Pennsylvanian who knew her buckwheats he delivered the following message: "He says, yes he does—and WHO wants to know?"

LUCK

What bring you, sailor, home from the sea—
Coffers of gold and of ivory?

When first I went to sea as a lad
A new jack-knife was all I had:

And I've sailed for fifty years and three
To the coast of gold and of ivory:

And now at the end of a lucky life

CALEDONIANS DO HONOR TO ST. ANDREW

Reminiscent of days when the sounding pibroch re-echoed over the Scottish heather and bright tartans gleamed proud, Caledonian distinctions was the program arranged by members of the Caledonian Club of the I.O.O.F. Temple in Norwood at the week-end in celebration of St. Andrew's night.

Stirring marches by the Society pipe band struck the keynote for the evening, and Scottish songs by Miss B. Campbell, Miss U. Falconer and Mrs. Ivor Jones, and Mrs. Lean were followed by the Scotch "Reel o' Tulloch" performed by Miss Wilson, Miss Falconer, Miss Shirlaw's pupils did the Highland dance.

Mrs. D. C. Ramsay, chaplain of the society, was guest speaker for the evening, and chose the appropriate theme "St. Andrew."

Mr. A. Stewart, president, occupied the chair for the meeting and Mr. Ed. Campbell and J. J. Tennant were in charge of arrangements for the program.

LEGION OF MOOSE ENTERTAIN AT CARDS

Mrs. C. Spilling, Miss G. Gray, Mrs. T. Griffiths, Mrs. E. Cudmore, Mrs. A. Mortimore, Mrs. H. Garfin, Mr. Bert Hopkins, Mr. J. E. Friend and Mr. R. L. McGilvray, were prize-winners at a whist drive and dance held in the Moose Temple recently under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Loyal Order of Moose, number 79. Thirty-two tables were at play.

Bridge For Creche Well Attended

Benefitting the work of the Edmonton Creche, the bridge party of 40 tables arranged by the Seneca Club in the Hudson's Bay dining room on Thursday evening, was extremely successful. Seneca Club members form an important auxiliary to the work of the Creche board, and this largely attended social affair was most popular.

Lady Rodney, president of the board, and Mrs. William J. Clink, vice-president, drew for the prize winners, who were Mrs. H. Morrison and Mrs. B. Dobson. Corsages of roses were presented to Lady Rodney and Mrs. Dick from the club.

Mrs. J. F. Battersby was convener for the affair assisted by Mrs. Ray Tibbey, Mrs. A. Johnson, and Mrs. J. H. Moore.

Among those present were:

Mrs. A. C. Fleming, Mrs. D. McLelland, Mrs. A. G. Smith, Mrs. H. Pinkerton, Miss J. Pinkerton, Miss H. Cushmore, Miss E. Cameron, Miss E. Bennie, Mrs. Ray Tibbey, Mrs. Clive Gilbertson, Mrs. J. Lorne, Mrs. D. E. McIntosh, Miss B. Dobson, Mrs. T. Bagnall, Mrs. A. E. Burke, Mrs. J. E. Thomas, Mrs. V. Duncan, Miss W. Macnall, Mrs. R. C. Lindsay, Mrs. Ian Fraser, Mrs. C. Ladesonte, Miss R. University Alumni Plan For Reunion

Reunion of University Alumni is always a gala occasion, and graduates of the University of Alberta are looking forward to the informal dinner dance, first social affair of the season arranged by the Edmonton branch of the Alumni Association to be held in the Corona Hotel on Tuesday evening, December 10, at seven o'clock. Mr. E. A. Corbett has been invited to speak and a brief program is arranged to precede the evening's dancing. There are a number of graduates in Edmonton who thoroughly enjoy the social occasions when they can rejoin friends of classroom days at any of the Alumni social affairs, and it is expected that there will be a large crowd present.

Plans for the affair were discussed at a recent meeting of the executive and members, held at the home of Miss Helen Porter, the secretary. Mr. Lawrence Alexander is president, and Mrs. E. W. S. Kane, vice-president of the executive.

Activities of the Alumni in Edmonton of interest to graduates who will attend the dance have been wide of scope and successfully sponsored in past years. One of the most splendid social services works in the city carried on through depression years has been the school for the unemployed sponsored by the association. Last year it was learned to read and write and the advance classes in English, economics and philosophy, as well as the training offered in primary engineering, with its branches of radio work and electricity were also instituted throughout the entire term. At present it is undecided as to whether the school will be maintained or not. This, however, with the support of "The Trail" magazine circulated among all University of Alberta Alumni, and published in Edmonton, and various other projects are of particular interest to students whose loyalty to Alma Mater is expressed, often, in their efforts to keep up such works of importance following University life.

Young Judaea Of The West To Meet Here

Convening in the holiday season members of the Young Judaea association in Western Canada will hold a conference in the Talmud Torah hall in Edmonton on Dec. 28, 29 and 30, when a program of vital interest to all members will comprise the agenda. Executive and social affairs will intersperse the business sessions. Rabbi J. Risen is honorary president of the association, and at the convention Young Judaeans from Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Vancouver and many other centers will attend the affair.

Mr. Lovatte Bernstein, president of the Edmonton Young Judaea, and convention chairman of the association, will act as host with the Edmonton club. Miss Clarice Olyan is chairman of publicity.

It is expected that Dr. Sachar, who occupies the chair of modern history at the University of Illinois, will be present for the convention, and a most interesting speaker.

A banquet and dance will conclude the conference on Monday evening, Dec. 30.

Announce, in honor of Miss Dorothy Stewart, a bride-elect of the near future, Honors went to Miss Edward Roberts and during the evening a handsome piece of silver was presented to the guest of honor. Miss A. Stewart Robertson, Miss Dorothy Stewart, Miss Pearl Alton, Miss Mary Richards, Miss Myra Richards, Miss Floretta Suter and Mrs. Rita Shearing.

Mrs. Lordship the Right Rev. A. E. Burn, Bishop of Edmonton, will formally open the display of work and home cooking, arranged by the Women's Auxiliary association of St. Mark's church to be held on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Wallace Cooper and Mrs. Ernest Wilson are in charge of arrangements.

Miss Miriam Cornell entertained members of the Dominoes Club at her home on Monday evening. Miss Dorothy Dodge received the draw for the winner of a table lamp. Mr. J. Wellman was holder of the lucky number. Others present were Mrs. Eric Thompson, Mrs. William Gilmour, Miss Dorothy Dodge, Miss Ruth Hamilton, Miss Olive Tull and Miss Elsie Gordon.

Mrs. George Pyne and Mrs. Helen Pyne of Vancouver arrived in Edmonton on Wednesday morning and are to spend a few days here, the guests of Mrs. C. J. Dawes.

Success Road Dotted With Help Of Wives

Jack and Jill were a nice girl and boy who were very much in love with each other, and because their parents were blanketed their romance and told them that hard times were no time to marry in, they eloped and got married anyway. At first they were very happy. Then Jack lost his job when payrolls began to be cut down, and Jill had to give up her work because there was a baby coming. Apparently having a complex or something about wishing themselves on people who can't afford them.

Jack is an energetic young chap, full of pep and ambition, so he hustled out and got any kind of work that he could get to earn a dollar, but as he has never had any steady job during the last two years. Now, however, he is offered a good position with a future in it, but apparently before he can get it he must put up a bond of several hundred dollars and he hasn't got the money.

Dorothy Dix

So he appeals to Jill to go back to her old job and help him earn the money to get a start, but she refuses. She says that she can't leave the baby in hired hands and that she wouldn't think of trusting it to a day nursery. It might get hurt, or be given the wrong food, or catch a contagious disease, or Heaven knows what might happen to it. And she feels that her first duty is to the baby. And, besides, it is a man's business to support the home and the wife's business to keep it. And so the argument stands and they asked me to arbitrate their fight.

I think Jack is right in this particular case, and that in this crisis of their affairs it is Jill's duty to do anything she can to give him a boost, even if that involves working outside of her home and parking the baby in a creche instead of giving him his bottle with her own hands.

There is much to be said on both sides of the question of the wage-earning wife. Undoubtedly it is true that when a man is spineless and indolent and self-indulgent by nature, he still further weakens himself by his wife assuming the support of the family, and that when he finds that Mary can do the slit down on the do-nothing stool and lets her do it.

Also it is undoubtedly true that no woman who works outside of the home is bound to neglect the inside of it. Nor can any one else pich-hit for a mother. Little children need a mother when they can monopolize and when they do not have to share with some business or career.

No one will deny that in the ideal marriage the husband makes the living and the wife makes the home. That is the division of labor that nature intended. For the woman who bears and rears children and who keeps a family comfortable and well-fed and clothed has certainly pulled off a full-sized job. She should not have to both make the dough and bake it.

But unhappy conditions are not ideal in this messy old world, and it often happens that even the most industrious and capable of men and those who would be gladdest to support their families cannot earn enough to do it. Then it is that the double burden falls upon the wife and she shows her sportsmanship by the way she meets the situation. By whether she takes it standing up or lying down.

Thousands of young couples could not marry if modern girls did not have courage and spunk and spirit to keep on with their jobs after marriage. Alone and unaided a man could not be supported before he would be able to assume the burdens of matrimony. The fire of motherhood would be fanned out, the glamour gone from romance, the wedding cake grown stale. But with a wife who is an asset instead of a liability the story is changed and the young man knows that they are still young and ardent and in love.

Furthermore, every wife who loves her husband desires to be a helpmeet to him, and when she sees that she can be of greater assistance to him by earning a good salary than she could be by patching his trousers or washing his shirts, who shall say that she is not fulfilling her duty by earning the money that will help him get a start outside of the home? Many a fortune has been founded on a wife's pay envelope.

And often it is even better for children that their mother should be a moneyed one rather than their nurse, because she more than atones for the loss of her personal attention by giving them a better environment to live in, better food, better medical attention, a better education than they could otherwise have.

I am not advocating married women working out of the home. I think it is always a pity when they have to do so, but very often it is the wise, brave and right thing to do. DOROTHY DIX

Your Children -

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Do you believe in fairies?" Peter Pan asked his audience. And the audience with one accord yelled "Yes."

Do YOU believe in fairies? It's either "yes" or "no." If the first, you are an idealist. If the second, a realist. This is the best explanation I can give of the difference between the two much discussed schools of thought today.

O. R. Barton

What is a fairy? Put to it, could you give a definite answer? I think not. If a thousand people answered, no two definitions would be precisely the same. Possibly one would say "something good" personified in beautiful form. Others that it was a power always helpful and better than we are. Still others would maintain that a fairy is an imaginary "creature" endowed with supernatural powers. Perhaps that would come first. Who can tell what the popular idea of a fairy is?

Remove the idea of all three premises from human life and let us see what is left. In the first place imagination would go, and imagination of creative genius, the imagination that found the radio, that will discover the secret of the comic ray, that will learn to split the atom. In other words, the vision of science. Science is based on facts however. The imagination of discovery is different from that of sentiment.

Shear us of sentiment and we are realists. We don't respond to beauty because beauty is an appeal to the emotional rather than the factual. We don't believe in sympathy or kindness or appreciation or gratitude or any mysterious power for good because they are not based on intelligence. The mechanical part of the mind will rule us and all pleasure in life, except the sensual and passionate (the pleasure given by the endocrines and hormones) will eventually be paralyzed. Life will consist of impulses transmitted by a flat eye, an ear from which all music nerves have been removed and a hand that refuses to deal with color.

DE-EMOTIONALIZED EXISTENCE

Drama will consist of plain passion mixed with economics. Books will deal with the mechanics of fact alone. Concerts will be purely intelligent and analyzed by the relation of musical theme to technical harmony.

We shall have no religion because it requires faith, and faith would be laughed at. Yes, by those very ones who still consent to listen to radio. Merry will not be in us because our creed will be justice based on intelligence and not in right into impulses transmitted by a flat eye, an ear from which all music nerves have been removed and a hand that refuses to deal with color.

Oven Temperature Is Important In Baking

By MARY E. DAGUE

Modern inventions have made an exact science of baking and there is little reason for failure with even the least inexperienced. Every manufacturer realizes the importance of dependable oven structure and range on scientific principles. Even of so young a thing as has regular white automatically controlled the flow of gas, oil or electricity.

It is impossible to maintain consistent results in baking without the use of an oven thermometer of some sort. If your oven hasn't a regulator, buy a thermometer. It will pay for itself many times over.

Of course a knowledge of the heat requirements demanded in the cooking of each type of food is essential. Women who formerly from experience that 12 corncobs would do the trick for a cake and that 2 maple sticks would keep the oven hot enough for a pie were the pioneers of the heat regulated oven and worked out for themselves what the manufacturer does for the present day housemaker.

START CAKES IN SLOW OVEN

Cakes require entirely different oven manipulation. The oven temperature should be low when the cake is put in and gradually increased until the required temperature is reached to complete the baking. Three hundred and fifty to 375 degrees F. are good temperatures for most butter cakes.

An important point regarding cake baking is the position of the pan in the oven. The loaf cake should be placed in the centre of the oven so that the distribution of the heat may be even—top, bottom and sides. Layer cakes, because they bake more quickly, are less apt to rise unevenly.

Crisp cookies should be baked in a hot oven. Molasses cookies which bake easily require a slow oven of not more than 250 degrees F.

Cakes with fruit in them require a moderate oven and must be thoroughly baked because this type of cake improves as it stands after baking.

Prune honey cake will stay fresh for a full week if it is made and thoroughly baked in the beginning.

PRUNE HONEY CAKE

One cup cooked prunes, 2 tablespoons finely shredded orange peel ½ cup granulated sugar, ½ cup strained honey, cup butter or other shortening, 3 eggs, 1 cup milk, 3½ cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon each of cinnamon and cloves.

The prune pits may be omitted and you may use nut meats. Put prunes and orange peel through chopper. Cream sugar and shortening. Beat in ½ cup sifted flour. Add eggs well beaten and mix thoroughly. Add prunes, orange rind and prune kernels. Mix and sift remaining flour, salt, soda and baking powder. Add alternately with milk to first mixture. Pour into loaf pan which has been lined and greased well and dusted with flour. Bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven 350 degrees F.) Put layers together and cover top and sides with boiled frosting.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Baked apples, cereal, cream, fizzled grits, hot muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Noodle soup, cottage cheese and carrot salad, popovers, milk, tea.

DINNER: Veal pot pie, stewed tomatoes, banana and peanut salad, prune honey layer cake, milk, coffee.

What's What

Question — I've been helped so often by your good advice that I'm going to ask you to help others. We are likely to become nervous wrecks because so many women delay their Christmas shopping until the last two weeks, and then always crowd in the afternoons. Why not get it over now, if only for their own sakes? SALESWOMAN.

Answer—Since gifts intended for a distant destination must be purchased and shipped by the middle of next week, all other orders should be placed at the same time whenever possible. "Early in the day, early in the week, early in the month." Well-bred women have consideration for others and for themselves. They make their Christmas purchases early in December and always in the forenoon, according to the stately code followed punctiliously by their mothers and grandmothers in days gone by: "A lady transacts all her business before noon, leaving her afternoon free for society activities."

Now, as then, the gentlewoman's manners are equally gracious and kindly whether she is entertaining or paying visits, or delighting a saleswoman by her courteous consideration.

Question—My landlady was very kind to me during a recent illness. I'd like to give her something for Christmas to show my appreciation. What would you suggest? (She is past 60.) BOARDER.

Answer—Send a bottle of fruit, a box of cut roses or a potted pink-stella plant with your card attached.

If you want a fur coat that goes well with dark dresses and a black suit, look at Hudson seal (dyed muskrat). A Hudson seal coat, dyed perfectly, and having a shimmery gleam, will make you look well burned out for several seasons.

MRS. GANDIER AGAIN HEADS GIRL GUIDES

Mrs. S. H. Gandier was unanimously re-elected District Commissioner of the Local Association of Girl Guides for 1936 Guides at their annual meeting held recently in Knox church. Other officers appointed were: Mrs. N. Moore, chairman of the executive; Mrs. P. S. Warren, recording secretary; Mrs. F. C. Hales, treasurer; Mrs. G. D. Lackerbie, badge secretary, and Mrs. Edmonstone, Mrs. V. Pearson, Mrs. Hustler, Mrs. J. Booker, Mrs. G. Thomlinson, Mrs. Mowbery, Mrs. Meredith, Mrs. J. McNeil, members of the executive.

Of special interest were the reports of the commissioners and lieutenants, which showed an increase in every company and pack by the Baden-Powell rally, and of the enrolling eagerness to learn more about guiding in its broadest sense. Encouraging was the record of two hundred and nine members, a decided increase over preceding years. Splendid accounts of the year's work were given by Mrs. G. T. Hooker, retiring secretary and Mrs. G. D. Lackerbie, badge secretary, while the financial statement showed a favorable balance. An interesting story of life in the Girl Guides Edmonton District Camp, as told by Miss Helen Burns, district captain, was greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Vernon Pearson, retiring chairman of the executive spoke briefly in appreciation of the co-operation she had received and a vote of thanks was proposed to all members of the executive and to Mr. Dick Johnson, auditor.

Mrs. Gandier welcomed new members, Mrs. F. C. Butterworth, Mrs. N. M. Corbett, Mrs. C. D. Jacox, Mrs. T. F. Morrison and Mrs. P. S. Warren. Guests were Mrs. H. M. Newson, divisional commissioner, Mrs. M. Burbidge, W. Edmonton district commissioner. Later refreshments were served.

I have found many people who believe that mice are young rats. These two little animals are separate species, and have never been known to have any different relationship. Just then they heard a long, loud, "Who-o-o." The next thing that the Tinies knew, an owl appeared up in a tree. It shouted, "Welcome, all you readers."

"Wee visitors are welcome here and there is not a thing to fear. If you seek fun, upon this land you will find lots and lots."

"Where are we?" said wee Dotty. "Gee, the whole place is a mystery. The trees are funny shaped. I'll bet that were in crazy land."

The owl replied, "Oh, no! You're wrong. In crazy land I don't belong. What made you think of such a thing, I cannot understand.

Oil Shampoos Make Hair Soft, Lustrous

By GLADYS GLAD

Even in summer days are not in our own west, when Buffalo Bills and Dead-Eye Dicks roamed about, once it was believed that smooth, glossy hair could do more to catch a woman's eye and to snare a man's heart than dull, frowsy locks. In those faraway days, when the newborn bandits' hair was greased for a raid, and bear's grease to slick down their hair. And they were quite the heart-breakers after the sticking job was completed.

In this day and age, dull, dry and lifeless hair is considered just as unattractive as it was in the time of cattle-smugglers and big, bad bandits. But now a greasy or hair-slicking is just as passe now as covered wagons. Today we have more scientific preparations for that purpose.

The wise modern maid takes stock of her locks, gives her hair a good oil treatment every week or two, and if it begins to look the least bit dull in between times, she sprays her hair with a good hair tonic, which counteracts dry and dull should administer reconditioning hot oil treatments, and then a brushing and combing treatments, until the condition is corrected. These steps in correcting dry, brittle hair are simple to execute, and are fully described in my "Oil Shampoo" booklet. Any normally intelligent woman can administer them herself.

OIL IS EFFECTIVE

However, until the dry dullness is corrected through such reconditioning treatments, any gal whose locks appear brittle and dull can add to her hair luster through the use of the better marketed preparations, or mix through the use of pure olive oil. It is best to apply this oil to the scalp at night. Dip your fingers lightly into the oil. Only the least bit of the oil should be used. Then massage your scalp with your oiled fingertips. You shouldn't need to dip your fingers into the oil more than several times to complete the entire massaging of your scalp. Then brush your hair well. This will distribute the oil evenly over your hair and give it a lovely sheen.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Eyeshadow

Bernice: Since your eyes are blue you may use blue-gray, blue or gray eyeshadow cream. The blue, however, is best for evening wear as the warm shades may be used for both daytime and evening wear.

Dandruff

Mabel: You will find an excellent dandruff remedy in my "Beauty Culture" booklet. This booklet also gives the hot oil treatments for promoting hair growth and thickness, a nail whitener treatment for oily, falling hair and the egg and lemon shampoo for blond hair.

BOOK REVIEW ON ETHIOPIA OF INTEREST

"Ethiopia" was the subject that chiefly occupied members at the annual W.C.T.U. at their meeting in the ladies' parlor of McDougall church on Tuesday. Interesting lights on the little country with its hidden treasures of undeveloped natural resources were given by the speaker, Mrs. Scouten, who drew quotations from Major Darby Buxton's descriptive book, "Slaves and Ivory".

She also spoke of British justice which has become a tradition among the natives of Africa who strongly admire the explorers, traders and travellers who have visited their country. The system of slavery, which though suppressed, is still established, is still a problem in Ethiopia, the government by many little petty kings, who make local law, besides a task a very difficult one.

Mrs. J. McArthur, president, announced that the next meeting, to be held on Monday, December 9, Adjutant Morrison, Salvation Army officer, would speak briefly on "Citizenship."

Mrs. J. H. Slack was appointed convener for a tea planned by the organization for Monday, November 25. Mrs. W. H. Sterne has offered her home for the occasion and will be assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. J. McArthur. Others on the committee for arranging the program which will include music and brief addresses are Mrs. J. H. McMinn, Mrs. R. K. Strang, Mrs. A. E. Wright, Mrs. C. E. Usher, Mrs. R. Kingsbury, Mrs. H. Scouten, Mrs. R. A. Craig and Mrs. G. W. Whitell.

SEWING BEES ARE A LITTLE THEATRE ROLE

Did you think that sewing bees were out of date? Not with Little Theatre members, who are busy these days making ready the costumes for "As You Like It." Electric sewing machines are astonished to find themselves stitching doublets and jerkins, pages' tunics edged with golden dragons, Ronalind's dresses with a thousand flowers-de-lis.

Aubrey Procter, their designer, has chosen for the play in the period of Richard II, when capes were gorgeous and even sleeves brought fine effects. The wrestling scenes have a fine Robin Hood swagger about them, and the little actors feel their gaudy feathers, a perversely modern art. Their overalls look fine over their gorgeous handiwork in the full glory of the flood-lights, when the curtain rises on "As You Like It" on Thursday evening, December 5.

Fresh coffee stains can be removed from the tablecloth by placing the stained part over a dish and pouring boiling water through it; then rubbing with glycerin and washing in soft water without soap.

MISSION HAS SPECIAL WEEK-END SERVICES

Rev. D. Ramsey, M.A., of Erskine United Church, was guest speaker recently when over fifty members of the Beverly United Church congregation gathered for a supper and social evening. Music was also arranged.

Sunday morning services were taken by Dr. A. D. Miller of St. Stephens' College, assisted by Mr. W. H. Sterne, as reading, a Remembrance Service, when Mr. Curtis and Mr. J. McAra laid a wreath on the altar was conducted in Buchanan Institute by Rev. J. T. Stephens. A pageant of Missions directed by Mrs. J. T. Stephens and a set of pictures "Twenty Years a King" were greatly enjoyed later in the evening.

Dr. Clive Jackson arranged the service at McDougall Institute and in the rural field, anniversary services were preached at Beaver Hills and Partridge Hill by Rev. J. T. Stephens. Five Sunday Schools were also conducted over the week-end.

WEDDING OF PIONEER NURSE INTERESTS MANY

Pioneer nurse in northern Alberta, Miss Mary E. Conlin, has long been associated with the splendid work in medical service in the province, and the news of her marriage to Mr. Robert W. Sterritt, engineer in charge of a department of a New York Telephone Company is of wide interest to many friends. Miss Conlin came to Alberta in 1910 after nursing service overseas and for many years was district nurse at Griffin Creek, Bragg at Jarvie.

Suffering two serious accidents she was forced to retire after 11 years spent in the north and since that time has been associated with the department of health of the provincial government as inspector of private hospitals and nursing homes.

The wedding ceremony was performed in First Presbyterian church manse after which Mr. and Mrs. Sterritt left for New York where they will make their home.

HORSES NEED BLANKETS IN WINTER WEATHER

Encouraging reports of the accommodations of the Humane Society towards the betterment of conditions for animal life in the city, were given by Officer MacDonald at a meeting of the group on Monday. Hay and oats are now being trained in the case of animals and the organization is urging that horses be well blanketed in the winter weather. Many diseased or strayed cats and dogs have been destroyed, but wherever possible, homes have been found for them.

Minute Make-Ups

Many of us do not realize the real beauty of color and sheen of our hair since soap film from most shampoos is difficult to remove. Lemon or vinegar make some headway as a solvent, but is not nearly so effective as a newly discovered chemical of graham salts solution. Have your hair rinsed with a teaspoonful of this in a cup and notice the radiance and lustre.

To End Annoying Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Big Saving! No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the well known old recipe which thousands of housewives have found to be a dependable means of breaking up winter coughs. It takes but a minute to prepare and saves very little, but it does give quick relief.

From any druggist, get a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup. Shake and use 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup water, stirred a few minutes until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's easy. Thus you make 16 ounces of splendid cough remedy, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This home mixture soothes the irritated throat, breaks up the tight, dry cough, loosens the phlegm and eases the tickle—in a way that is prompt in astonishing.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine in a concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunding if it does not please you in every way.

What To Do

Where is the hostess who does not want her home to present its choicest, trimmest appearance when the holiday guests arrive? Of course, by this time fresh draperies are in place, furniture is polished, windows gleam and floors glow with shining pride. But—too often the fixtures in the kitchen and bathroom worn by frequent and vigorous scourings, look sad and out of place. No matter, here's a way to restore them in the twinkling of an eye—just buy a small can of quick drying enamel paint to match the color of the accessories of these useful rooms, and carefully apply it to the spots. It will not take long, and the paint will be smooth, dry and glossy almost before as it is applied. Not only does this treatment cover the worn spots, but the touch of color is very attractive. Best of all, it may be renewed so easily one may always have bright, clean faucets.

Miss Phyllis Belmont will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader inclosin' with their questions a self-addressed, 3-cent stamped envelope.

EVERYTHING IN READINESS FOR QUINT FILMING

Visiting Hollywood Unit is Ready to Shoot After Babies Sleep

By A. E. FULFORD

CALLANDER, Ont., Dec. 4—After a day spent in interviewing Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe and looking over the quintuplets' nursery to see just where movie equipment could be set up, the visiting Hollywood unit announced everything in readiness for a start at actual filming towards noon.

You thought motion picture "shooting" started early in the morning? For the grown-ups, yes. For Shirley Temple, likewise. But for the quintuplets, no. They must first have their regular morning sleep, and if they decide to snooze past the scheduled starting hour of 11 o'clock, there will be nobody to wake them.

BEST BEHAVIOR HOPED

Director King and his two adult stars, Jean Hersholt and Dorothy Peterson, are hoping that the youngsters will be on their best behavior and that a real start can be made towards filming the scenes of "The Country Doctor" in which the five little sisters will appear.

Technicians were busy Tuesday getting equipment unloaded from the special baggage car which brought it all the way from Hollywood.

Rev. Billy Sunday Has $50,000 Estate

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—The Rev. William A. "Billy" Sunday built an estate of approximately $50,000 in his 39 years of evangelism, it was disclosed today, when his will was filed for probate. He left all to his widow, Mrs. Helen A. Sunday.

Sunday died here Nov. 6. He was 72.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

By DAN THOMAS

NOW that Hollywood has become so "grand opera minded" that it virtually has a corner on operatic talent, studio executives are beginning to wonder "Where do we go from here?"

So far the road has been smooth. Grace Moore's "One Night of Love" created an operatic cycle that has rolled along on its own momentum. All pictures featuring the vocal celebrities have followed that picture's formula rather closely.

Now, however, the producers are facing the necessity of doing something different with their songbirds. Not only is the public beginning to tire of seeing the same formula dumped into the pot, but the arias from popular operas are rapidly being exhausted.

So far there arias have been used by Miss Moore in two films and by Lawrence Tibbett, Lily Pons, Gladys Swarthout, Nino Martini and Mary Ellis in one picture each. And they all have contracts for more productions.

In addition the movies have their own singers — Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy, Irene Dunne, John Boles, and Michael Bartlett, all of whom excel in choice numbers. Then there are a dozen or more others whose forte is popular numbers. These cause the producers no worry. Plenty of song writers to take care of them.

The opera stars are the real problem. The public has indicated that it wants these people. But it doesn't want them to remain in the mould already cut. And it's for the producers to decide what shape the new mold should assume. That's what is giving them grey hair. They actually don't know what to do.

19-YEAR-OLD BOY IS OWNER OF CHAMPION

Cleo Yoder of Wellman, Iowa, Triumphs at Great Stock Show

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—A velvety black Aberdeen-Angus reached the precarious pinnacle of Stockdon Tuesday—winning the accolade as grand champion steer of the 36th International Livestock Exposition.

It was a triumph for Iowa and for farm youth as well as for the Aberdeen-Angus breed, for "Pat's Blue Ribbon" which won the eighth day show's major award was raised by a 19-year-old farm lad, Cleo Yoder, of Wellman, Iowa.

Cleo was the youngest breeder in years to win the show's climactic award.

SHORT REIGN

But "Pat's Blue Ribbon's" reign was destined to be short-lived.

On Thursday he will be led from the Exposition's royal stall to the auction block carrying his master's hopes he will bring more than the $3 a pound last year's champion commanded. If he does, 1,035-pound 18-month and three-weeks old "Pat's Blue Ribbon" would be worth some $3,105.

Among the exhibitors who bowed in Absentia to Yoder was the Prince of Wales. The Scotch Shorthorn Baptista Grater, which outclassed the other entries from the E. P. ranch at High River, won a blue ribbon but lost out in trying for the senior championship of his breed.

The reserve champion steer was also an Aberdeen-Angus. This second highest honor was claimed by William E. Scripps, publisher of the Detroit News and operator of "Wildwood Farm," where the reserve winner was nurtured.

QUEBEC WINNER

The principal award to Canadians today went to Alexander MacLaren of Buckingham, Que., who showed the grand champion bull, milking Shorthorn division. The entry, "Willingdon Ajax" also won the senior champion bull in the same division.

For the fifth consecutive year, Purdue University walked off with another of the exposition's principal awards, when "Purdue Model V" was chosen grand champion barrow.

William Lantz, 35-year-old Jeffersonville, Ind., farmer, won the crown of 1935's "corn king" at the International Grain and Hay Show. His tray of 10 ears of "Johnson City White Dent" were adjudged the best of 13,000 samples, submitted by superior corn farmers of 35 states.

Agnes MacPhail Is Elected Director

TORONTO, Dec. 4—W. A. Amell of Palmerston was re-elected president of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, Limited, at the annual meeting of directors last night. Harlod Currie of Strathroy was elected vice-president, and N. E. Lindsay of Renfrew was named to the executive.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., was elected to the board of directors. It was the first time Miss MacPhail had sought office.

The annual report of the general manager, H. B. Cleeves, showed net profit of $46,443 for the year ended Sept. 30, 1935. In addition $33,411 was set aside as the usual reserve for depreciation and $9,569 to cover possible bad debts.

Gillis, Bad Boy, Is Mayor Again

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 4.—Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis literally whispered his way back into the mayor's office last night.

Campaigning on a slogan "silence is golden" in direct contrast to his bombastic fanfare of previous campaigns, the erstwhile "Peck's bad boy" of local politics became mayor of this ancient port for the third time by a majority of 924 votes.

Gillis succeeds Mayor Gayden Morrill, who twice in succession draped crepe over Bossy's majority hopes.

Epic Picture At Rialto Has Tragedy In Song

At the Rialto theatre all this week is showing an epic story of one of the world's most beloved composers, Stephen Collins Foster. The central figure in the musical film "Harmony Lane" Foster is shown making his way through the world from his youthful longing to the darkies singing around Pittsburgh, to his tragic death several years later, when he had enjoyed success and finally met defeat and failure.

Foster was not a great composer as was Beethoven, Bach or Brahms. He was not the giant of musical technique that was Wagner or is Strauss, Ravel, Stravinsky or Sibelius. But he was a great composer in that he wrote the songs of the people—rich, golden melody pouring in unending streams from his melodius well-spring.

Thousands of operas and symphonies have been produced, played once and passed into the discard since Foster wrote his beloved melodies. But they linger on, as fresh, fragrant and verdant as ever—songs of the people and songs for all time.

"Harmony Lane" tells the tragic story of this talented composer, cut down in his prime by misfortune and too great a proclivity for the rose strewn path. His career is traced from the time he was a ragged, likable lad around Pittsburgh, through his tenure as a clerk in a relative's office at St. Louis, to the time he joined up with Christy's Minstrels and then started his trend aalong the career that tore him down from his lofty pedestal to an unhappy end.

It is a gripping picture, splendidly produced, excellently acted and with a cast thats snakes the most of every opportunity.

BIRDME TION Of The Northlanes

BY JAM COLEMAN

The Congress hotel in Chicago. Decorations by Joseph Urban — music by Seyn Simons — gowns by Patou — champagne by the bucket — and fresh whitefish by the grace of Grant McConachie.

All of which leads up to George William Grant McConachie, 26-year-old United Air Transport tycoon, and herein after known as the "Flying Fish-hacker."

GRANT McCONACHIE

Chicago gourmets made McConachie famous and guided him along the primrose path. In that gusty community on the shores of Lake Michigan worshippers of the bouillabaisse, snuffers of Hennessy Cognac 1840, Calvados '65 and other precious extracts, demanded that their fish must be fresh—never would they eat the meat from a finny creature if they knew that it had once been frozen.

Caterers to the midwestern bandemonde were enspinned. They recognized that the chill waters of Cold lake in northern Alberta yielded the most delectable of whitefish and lake trout. The problem was how to bring them from the long winter train to Bonnyville without freezing them.

If they were packed out by horse and sleigh—the trip required two days.

Four years ago Grant McConachie and a partner, the borizon on Trinity Fokker. He carried a trial shipment of fish by air from the lake to railhead—the trip required 30 minutes.

"The fish were still kicking when they packed them in the refrigerator cars," McConachie after elaborately remincently.

Fishermen, shippers, merchants and gourmets were enthralled. McConachie and his mechanic agent 273 hours in the air during the next 90 days, packing fish to Bonnyville whence the cargo was rushed over the rails to Chicago. Since that time his planes have carried 1,500,000 pounds of fish destined for epicurean tables.

EDMONTON PRODUCT

Though born in Hamilton, McConachie is really an Edmonton product. His father, now master mechanic, Canadian National Railways, brought him here at the age of nine months.

He grew into a dark, young giant, standing well over six feet, attended local schools and University of Alberta with indifferent scholastic success but achieved some degree of fame in athletic fields. He played intercollegiate hockey, rugby and basketball and his huge frame is familiar in the livery of the Edmonton Eskimo junior rugby and hockey teams.

Young Mr. Northbidge taught him to fly at the Edmonton and Northern Alberta Aero Club in 1929. Two years later he graduated with a flier on him and he set out for China to defend that country against invading Japanese.

GOT HIS CHANCE

An uncle in Vancouver, not willing to have one of the clan buried in China, offered to buy him a Fokker if he'd stay in Canada and enter commercial aviation—that's how McConachie came to become the "Flying Fish-Packer."

He might well be called "the man who moved a town," because his planes and pilots are responsible for the rise of the community of Wabasca-Lakers Lake in northern British Columbia.

That little-known story is really one of the stupendous sagas of aviation.

Across an 8,000 foot high mountain range the McConachie fliers carried 90 human beings, cattle, horses, a caterpillar tractor, a saw mill, an electric light plant, coal, hay, oats and every other conceivable human need for a town of 2,000 Lake, midway between Prince Rupert and the boundary of the Northwest Territories, is accessible only by air.

His is the only company serving northern British Columbia and although the fish trade showed him the key to success he admits that mining activities are now responsible for the majority of "payloads" carried by his four planes.

PRIVATE RADIO STATIONS

Fish-packing by plane being confined to the winter months, McConachie only brings his entourage to Edmonton in his absence. Otherwise his headquarters are located in Calgary where he maintains a private radio station as well as similar units at Two Brothers Lake and Takla Landing, B.C.

The "Flying Fish-Packer" has contributed his share of front-page stories to the newspapers. In one winter he performed 17 "mercy flights." But three years ago now he left Edmonton one morning on a fish-haul. Ice formed on the wings and a few minutes later one perfectly good Fokker was scattered all over the landscape—it was complete "write off" McConachie was picked up in pieces too, but the "breakers" managed to patch him together.

His partners in various ventures were the late Princess Galitzine, late "Barney" Phillips, and, at the present time, "Barney" Phillips, Jr.

MARRIED THIS YEAR

Five months ago McConachie married Margaret MacLean, of Edmonton.

Last week the Bulletin interviewed the young tycoon as the United Air Transport "flying fleet" was preparing to set out for northern lakes. Pilots Ted Field, Gil MacLaren, Ernie Kubicek, and Len Wagner anxiously awaited their grease monkeys as they worked on the giant tri-motor Ford and three Fokker Universals.

Chicago gourmets may rest assured.

Congress hotel may hang out a shingle "Business As Usual." Bustling waiters can prepare to serve Caviar, Consommé — 1846, Calvados '65 champagne by the bucket and fresh whitefish by the grace of Grant McConachie.

POLICE PLAN BIG DRIVE ON BOOTLEGGERS

Inspector Shaw to Ask Additional Men for Morality Squad

Thirty Edmontonians can expect to suffer from very dry week-ends starting next Sunday when Inspector J. J. Shaw and his new morality squad really "goes to war."

Breaking his silence Wednesday for the first time since his squad went under legal fire with the charging of Detective-Sergeant Bert Pecheram and Detective Bill Smith with conspiracy, Inspector Shaw disclosed that he will ask Police Chief A. G. Shute for from six to twelve new men for the morality squad.

STAGE BIG DRIVE

"We're going to stage a drive so tough that Edmonton will be drier than the Sahara," declared the Inspector. "This case, the charging of my two men with conspiracy, appears to be a move on the part of organized bootlegging to block the work of the morality men."

The police department, through its legal council, Neil D. Maclean, will apply to the attorney-general for a stay of proceedings on the Petheram-Smith-Johanson case.

Denying published reports that he had been forced to serve his own men with the summonses which brought them to court on the conspiracy charges, Inspector Shaw declared that service had been made by Detective William Macdonald, coroner's officer of the plain clothes squad.

"If they had brought those summonses to me for service, I would have ripped them up and tossed them into the waste paper basket," said Shaw.

FOLLOWING ORDERS

"Detective Sergeant Petheram and Detective Smith need no defence. They were following orders in line of duty," declared Inspector Shaw.

While not wishing to be quoted directly, he pointed out that the two police officers were merely prosecuted were following orders issued by Police Chief Shute and by himself in the city of booze and bootleggers.

"The charges are ridiculous and ungrounded. There is no better officer on the department than Detective-Sergeant Petheram. Two men might as well have charged the Chief and myself, it wouldn't have been any more foolish," stormed Inspector Shaw.

Repercussions from the present cases were forecast by the morality chief.

"We're going to get to the bottom of this," he said, "and if there has been any malicious prosecution, some people had better get into the clear pretty fast."

TECHNOCRATS TO MEET THURSDAY

Edmonton branch of Technocracy Inc., already away to a good start following the visit of Howard Scott to Edmonton, will hold its next meeting in the large committee room of the Masonic Temple on Thursday evening, December 5 at 8 p.m., and an open invitation to all interested has been extended by the organization committee.

"Technocracy Inc., a sectional group of which is now in course of organization in Edmonton, is a group of men and women banded together for the purpose of studying the Price system and the technological machine in production and distribution under the 'Price system', by a course supplied by Technocracy Inc. of New York. It is open to all citizens of North America of any creed who are willing to subscribe to the "By-laws" laid down by the organization," said Captain George Rice who is taking a leading part in organizing the Edmonton group.

"Technocracy is not a political organization and does not have any connection in any shape or manner with any political organization in existence, and will not accept as a member any one who is an officer of any political party to air their views on any subject except Technocracy on the floor, nor will they allow any discussion on any political or religious subjects in their meetings."

Civic Finance Committee Takes Proposal Under Consideration — Tenders To Be Asked.

Replacement of the existing Latta Ravine timber bridge with a steel structure at an estimated cost of $44,000 was recommended to the city council at the first regular meeting of the civic finance committee, Tuesday, commissioners being instructed to take all necessary legal steps so that details covering the project could be completed by the end of the year. Tenders will also be called for.

City Engineer A. W. Haddow explained that while the present structure had been ruled unsafe, it was not in an alarming condition. He suggested that if the steel work for the new bridge could be let this winter, building could be commenced early in the spring. If there was any mining subsidence under the bridge at the present time it was right, the engineer declared, adding that the proposal to substitute a fill was unsatisfactory, owing to the danger of the fill sliding into the ravine.

Discussing the question of finance; for the project, City Comptroller John Hodgson said the cost could be met from the $50,000 expenditure provided for in the charter for public safety, together with an unexpended balance of 39,000 in connection with construction several years ago on the High Level bridge and another $10,000 provided for in the unemployed works programme. Relief labor could be used to some extent in the building of the new bridge, it was stated.

FAVORS CLOSING

Mayor J. A. Clarke was of the opinion the present bridge should either be replaced or closed and traffic re-routed around the ravine head. There was a possibility of an accident occurring on a structure which had been ruled unsafe, he contended. He favored the closing of the existing structure next spring.

Commissioner David Mitchell informed the committee that none of the city had already received two tenders for the building of the steel structure, another company had indicated its wish to submit a price, and he was of the opinion that tenders should be called for. The committee supported this recommendation.

BEVERLY POWER

Considering the application of the town of Beverly for a supply of power by the city of Edmonton, the committee recommended that commissioners confer with the superintendents of the city electric light department in the matter, and report to city council on a plan covering the proposal which could be submitted for approval to the Board of Public Utility Commissioners. Representatives for Beverly, which has been in receivership for some time, are:

E. Floden and John T. Doolan, councillors for the town, proposed that the line over which the city at present serves Beverly, Mayfair Co. east of Edmonton be tapped to provide the town with the supply of power formal recognition of which receives from the Calgary Power company.

The committee recommended to council that Henderson & Kinnaird, city auditors for several years, be reappointed as official auditors for Edmonton.

Precautions Taken To Prevent Spread Of Scarlet Fever

Residents of the Garneau school district need not be unduly alarmed about cases of scarlet fever in the school, Dr. D. J. Dunn, medical officer, stated at a meeting of the Edmonton Public School Board, Tuesday night.

Although nine cases have been reported in that school, every precaution is being taken, the physician stated. Wherever there is a suspect, the child is sent home until all danger is over.

In a number of cases, children have been sent home when there was some throat trouble and also from school until the throat infection cleared up, in order to be on the safe side.

There are a few cases scattered throughout the city but the situation is well viewed in every case either by the school medical officer or the city health department, Dr. Dunn said.

Dr. Dunn presented a report showing that, since the work of diphtheria inoculations was started in 1924, there have been 22,644 children given this treatment. As far as is known, not one child who has received this treatment has since contracted the disease.

Faces Prison Term Unless He Pays Up $492 By Monday

E. M. Keifer faces a prison sentence unless by Monday he pays into court $492 previously awarded to Dora Flora and Stanley Blozak in a civil court action. Judge A. U. G. Bury has ruled that Keifer is guilty of contempt of court for not having paid up before this.

On October 11 Judge Crawford ordered Keifer to pay to Dora Flora and Blozak the monies which were said to be held in a trust fund. When he failed to comply J. N. McDonald, counsel for the plaintiffs, applied for a committment for contempt of court.

Pending the disposition of this particular case Judge Bury has adjourned the hearing of a suit Keifer has launched against Mrs. Annie Burnett in district court.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Television, so the engineers tell us, is about to do to the telephone what Henry Ford did to the Old Grey Mare. In other words, Dame Prosperity has another playmate to romp in the corner, and it's the vision phone.

"So what?" asked The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter today.

"So plenty, that's what," reply the clients below.

HAROLD BAKER, stockman: Television will be tough on the tired businessman. What's he going to do when he calls up, a little the worse for wear, at a hotel room party, to tell his wife that business has piled up on his desk and that he won't be able to tear loose from the office to get home for supper? The minute his wife gets a peek at his bleary-eyed pan, she's going to know that he's not at a party and not at the office, and what chance has he got to have a little fun unless he lugs a pencil and typewriter along with him for atmosphere?"

LILLIAN LINDSKOG, bookkeeper: "When television comes in what a poor girl going to do when the boy-friend catches her on the other end of the wire just as she's stepping out of the bath?

JACK CASTLE, salesman: "The dangers a fellow will run when he becomes a television subscriber are terrific. He might be hunter or an Antarctic explorer will be pikers compared to the hazards girl who calls up his wife to say that he's in the middle of an important business deal, and then has her call him back, to find him having a session with the "Jacks - or - Better - to - Open Club."

MARJORIE DERBYSHIRE, secretary: "Television has its distinct disadvantages. When the boy-friend calls to make sure you're still "cahnceree" about him, it won't be easy to put across the 'Why yes darling, of course I do. You know there's only you' stuff, especially if he calls you up from see-as-you-talk phone on the knee of some part-time sweetie."

ARTHUR ALDERSON, hotel bellman: "Television will take a lot of the joy out of life. Take today when I want to tell off some hard - boiled meanie over the phone. I ring him up and before I tear off a chunk of my mind and jam it into his ear, I'll have to get to look at him when I get tough on the wire, and he has a particularly belligerent looking set of features, I'm liable to be intimidated and ask him over for a set of ping pong instead of giving him the works."

INQUIRING REPORTER: "The invention will take all the skill and finesse out of throwing the bull. What will I do when I want to sleep in a couple of hours late and call the office from home to say I've just missed a street car? It'll mean that I've got to get me a toy train and a set of tracks to rig up near the television phone to give my story a little weight. It may pan out fine if I can stick the receiver down against the tracks and yell, 'See, there goes the 8.30 street car.' Not bad, eh?"

Implementing of the physical education program drafted by the Edmonton Public School Board will be considered when the budget is being discussed, it was decided by trustees Tuesday night. As a temporary measure, duties of W. T. Tait, attendance officer, will be reorganized to permit him to give a large part of his time to physical training supervision. He will work with Major R. Kennedy, physical director. The property committee will plan organization of school bands.

The Edmonton Stamp Collectors' Club will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday Dec. 5, at the Memorial hall. The evening will be devoted to a display and talk on the Silver Jubilee stamps of 1935.

Western Tannery and Harness Manufacturing Co. Ltd., has been incorporated with a capital of $30,000 and with its headquarters in Edmonton, according to the last issue of the Alberta Gazette.

Joe Pryke, formerly professional golfer at the Prince Rupert golf course, and now pro at Colwood, Victoria, golf course, shot a 69 and a 67 to establish a new record for the course. The best score turned in prior to Pryke's was 71 and 70.

Three resignations from the teaching staff of the city schools were received by the Edmonton Public School Board Tuesday night. Those who will leave the staff are Miss Gwen Pecknold, Miss Olive J. Shaw and Miss Ray Snow.

Ross Plumbing Company was awarded $12 and costs in district court Wednesday morning when Walter Kostiuk was sued for monies owed for plumbing goods. P. J. Lazarowich appeared for the plaintiff and the defendant conducted his own case.

Judge Crawford reserved judgment in the case of Edward J. Sutton versus Alex. Phillips in district court Wednesday morning. Sutton, a hotel keeper in the early days in Phillips' store, alleged that he was forced out of his lease without proper notice.

INCREASE IN JOBLESS TOTAL

Colder weather and cessation of harvest activities has continued to increase the number of registered unemployed in the province, according to figures released on Wednesday by official sources.

At Saturday last there were 9,389 registered unemployed in the province, of whom 8,595 were men and 794 women.

The city maintained its place as the leading unemployment centre of the province, with 4,372 men and 440 women registered. Calgary ran in second place with 3,411 men and 200 women registered. Lethbridge registered 503 men and 33 women, and Drumheller 186 men and 20 women.

Placements during the week totalled 879, of whom 781 were men and 86 women.

Recreation Hall For Unemployed Advocated Here

Pointing out that under present conditions in Edmonton, single unemployed have no means of spending their time in a constructive manner, and that there is a tendency on is to linger around pool rooms and on street corners, Edmonton Welfare Council request the formation of Youth, through Mrs. F. L. McPherson, is asking the provincial government to take action in the matter.

Suggestion is made that a recreation hall, properly supervised, be provided, with facilities for writing, reading, music, games and other forms of recreation.

The resolution has been forwarded to Premier Aberhart with a request that it be given immediate consideration.

Police Court

Mantle Townsend, 25, and Clifford Stern, 21, from Souris, Manitoba, pleaded guilty to four charges of obtaining stolen property and were remanded in custody until Thursday, when sentence will be passed. Detective Murdo Macdonald told the court that the goods, which included a razor, gloves, shirt, gold watch and other articles had been stolen from four houses, three of which had been entered with a pass key and one through a bed-room window.

When Magistrate A. H. Gibson called the case against the five men the maximum terms of six months on each charge, to run consecutively, and a fine of $100 to Prince Albert penitentiary, R. F. Jackson, counsel for Townsend, pleaded for a lighter prison sentence.

"I am not impressed with the trades they teach at Prince Albert," Mr. Jackson said. "They experienced is that they don't amount to anything. These boys would be better at Fort Saskatchewan where they would do farm work. That is the work they know."

The court decided to remand for a day while he considered the cases.

When morality squad officers had removed all the drawers from a dresser in the room of Ronald Stoneley, in the Victoria rooms, 101 street, and still could not lift the dresser, they decided something was amiss. Detective Ed. Kenny told the court.

A false back was found in the bureau, the aperture containing 38 bottles of beer and four of Scotch. A dozen other bottles found in the room were added evidence, and Stanley pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal sale of liquor. He was fined $300 and costs or six months.

Detectives Herbert Petheram and William Smith, who, along with Albert Johanson, face charges of conspiracy to commit an unlawful act, arising out of methods employed to secure evidence to convict Walter Olis on a bootlegging charge, received an adjournment for a week. Johanson and Petheram also are charged with illegal purchase of liquor.

Adjournment for a week was given in the case of Joseph White, charged with conducting a lottery.

THE ROAD REPORT

The Alberta Motor Association road and weather report indicates good roads throughout the province with no change in weather Wednesday.

A detailed report is as follows:

Jasper highway, road open. Peace River highway, road open all the way but owing to the steep icy hill, 18 miles up the river from Smith, where cars are crossing, it is impossible to travel beyond Smith from Athabasca. Cars coming to Edmonton from Slave Lake can get through without trouble. North Battleford, Hughenden, Wainwright, Cherhill, Vegreau, Mulhurst and St. Paul roads open and in good condition. Provost, closed.

MINING FIRM MAY DEVELOP GOLD CLAIMS

Rumor Timmins Company To Spend $1,500,000 on Outpost Island

Rumors current in northern mining circles for many weeks that the great Timmins mining company will sink $1,500,000 as a starter to open development on gold properties on Outpost Island in Great Slave Lake, were given some foundation Wednesday with the arrival in Edmonton of Lloyd G. Smith, executive field man of the N. A. Timmins Company, the big mining operations who opened up the Timmins gold field.

While refusing to divulge the reasons for the rail and air trip from Edmonton to Atlanta, where the headquarters are located to the Great Slave Lake country, Mr. Smith hinted that the N. A. Timmins is considering large development work on Outpost Island. From other sources it is learned that N. A. Timmins Co. has secured the lease on this island in the east end of the Great Slave.

TO FLY NORTH

The mining expert alighted from the Canadian National's "Continental Limited" early Wednesday, registered at the Macdonald, contacted mining men here in the city and made arrangements for a flight to the Great Slave area.

Mr. Smith talked to reporters over the threshold of the Macdonald hotel room door as he carried on a three way conversation, talking over the telephone, conversing with mining men who called soon after his arrival, and answering questions sparring by newsmen who stood out in the corridor.

Speaking only generality of the object of his trip, he refused to be pinned "down to cases", making no statements.

COMMON RUMOR

Told that talk was common of N. A. Timmins Company spending $1,500,000 on development work on Outpost Island, he just said, "Is that so?"

He did not deny that his mining company has the lease on the island, but insisted no work would get under way until after his return to Haileybury, Ontario.

No crews or machinery will go to Outpost Island until the spring break-up, he disclosed in referring reporters to a published report of N. A. Timmins Company's activities and plans.

"I can't say anything at present", he replied as he closed the door of his room, "I'm going up there with an open mind."

COLDER SPELL NOW FORECAST

Well, here it is at last. The mild spell enjoyed for the last 10 days appears on the point of terminating and "somewhat colder" weather with possible development in northern districts forms the basis of the forecast. Throughout Alberta on Wednesday westerly winds will prevail and there will be a slight change in temperature.

The highest point reached by the thermometer on Tuesday was 34, while the lowest of the last 24 hours at 5 p.m. on Wednesday was 15 above. The mean temperature on Tuesday was 22.5 as against 18.5 for the same day a year ago.

The sun on Thursday will rise at 8.33 a.m. and will set at 4.16 p.m.

Hourly temperature readings from 3 p.m. on Tuesday until midnight were 30, 30, 29, 27, 35, 24, 22, 23, 22, 21, 20, 18, 18, 16, 15, 15, 16 and 15.

FOUR RELIEF INSPECTORS TO GET GATE

Arrival in this province of 25 R.C.M.P. constables will mean the dismissal of several relief inspectors in northern districts as well as dispensing with the services of a group of voluntary workers, Hon. Ernest C. Manning, acting premier, stated on Wednesday.

Hon. Mr. Manning said that four relief inspectors in the Lesser Slave Lake district area would be laid off at the end of this month and that about 15 men who have been contributing their services no longer would be required. All this work in the district will be done by R.C.M.P. officers, who handle relief administration in unorganized districts.

The new officers are expected to arrive here soon after the agreement is signed at Ottawa, whereby the R.C.M.P. will police this province for the next three years.

Manning Denies Reports Of Big Jobless Influx

Influx of unemployed into Calgary has not reached abnormal proportions, acting Premier Hon. Ernest C. Manning declared on Wednesday when asked regarding reports that Calgary was the focal point for a large number of unemployed seeking their Social Credit basic dividends of $25 a month.

"My information from Calgary is that there is no abnormal influx of unemployed and find that this development is about normal for this time of the year," the premier and minister of harvesting operations," declared the acting premier.

TAX COLLECTIONS SHOW INCREASE

Showing an increase of $468,153.29 as compared to last year's figure, tax collections for the first month of the new fiscal totalled $3,690,924.22, the total for the same months in 1934 being $3,382,709.93, according to a report released Wednesday by Thos Walker, city tax collector. Increases in current and arrears payments on property taxes and larger business tax collections are features of the report. Classification of collections follows, figures for 1935 and 1934 being given in that order: Land taxes—current, $2,570,269.05, $2,384,460.92; arrears, $837,632.10, $613,663.63; business tax—current, $205,451.73, 31.82, 165.75; arrears, $31,806.27, $33,321.31; service tax—current, nil, $22,500; arrears, nil, $900; land sales, $45, 765.17, $37,117.42.

Premier Sympathetic To Returned Men

Most satisfactory results were achieved by the delegation from the contact committee of returned men in the interview with Premier Aberhart, according to reports issued at the regular monthly meeting of the Dominion Veterans Association in the Memorial Hall, Tuesday evening.

The delegation, headed by Canon C. F. A. Clough, was given a sympathetic reception and Premier Aberhart promised every consideration. He also appealed to the returned men for their support and co-operation, it was reported.

The association decided to invite both federal and provincial members to be guest speakers at their next monthly meeting.

A minute of silence was observed in memory of the late Admiral Jellicoe and W. E. Rhodes and W. R. Wilson, Edmonton members who died recently.

Guest speaker of the evening was J. Unwin, M.L.A. for Edson. Col. P. G. Sims was in the chair.

THE outside covering of a 20-year-old tree is the same as that which enclosed it as a one-year-old sapling. The cambium layer adds annual growths on the inner side, while the outer bark stretches and splits, to accommodate the increasing girth.

Fall Of Makale: An Illustrated Chapter In War Hist[illegible] 'Em Over

TION
ES

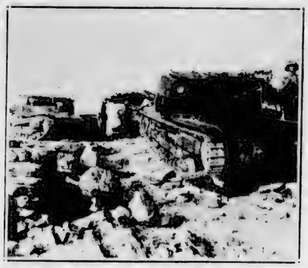

In Makale at last! The advance guard of the Italian conquerors is pictured by Ray Rousseau, Bulletin staff photographer, as they took their ease on an elevation in the town toward which they had toiled many miles under the hot African sun. The native mud huts make a dreary contrast with the gleaming white buildings of European inspiration in the distance.

Only a few steps from the climax of conquest, Ras Gugas, riding a mule and attended by the vanguard of the Italian force that captured the city, is pictured in the shadow of Makale's walls. A soldier carries the Italian flag, which he raised at the governor's palace.

In pictures rushed to America by Ray Rousseau, Bulletin staff cameraman, is recorded the historic capture of Makale, marking recovery of territory from which Italian forces were driven 40 years before by Ethiopia. Makale looms large as the victorious troops, scattered across the plain, approach it. At right, leading a motley column of followers, is Ras Gugas, perfidious son-in-law of Haile Selassie.

Even tanks, notorious for their agility on bad terrain, found the going very rough on the way to Makale. Motorized fortresses are pictured by Ray Rosseau, Bulletin staff cameraman, tumbling over a rocky road toward the captured town.

The use of camels and mules enabled the Italian army successfully to conclude its campaign against Makale as weather and terrain rendered motorized transportation unreliable. A group of non-combatant natives is pictured by Ray Rousseau, Bulletin staff cameraman, watching a camel train ford a shallow stream to provision the troops in the advance on Makale.

REID REFUTES FINANCE 'MESS' ALLEGATIONS

Former Premier Claims U.F.A. Policies Didn't Hinder Credit

Stoutly proclaiming that provincial credit was unimpaired by United Farmers of Alberta policies and declaring that had the U.F.A. been re-elected on Aug. 22 last there would have been no run on savings certificates—a run which ended in payment being suspended and still suspended, former Premier R. G. Reid denies that his administration left provincial finances in a deplorable condition.

Charges have been made by Premier William Aberhart that he was left a legacy of "deplorable" financial conditions by the Reid administration which was obliterated at the polls on August 22.

"Run on the provincial savings certificates never would have occurred if our government had been returned," he said. "History of recent years proves this.

"The government of the day is justified only in completing our budgetary proposals to the extent that they can be paid from the collections or borrowings.

"Maturing bond obligations which forms a large part of the loan application to Ottawa, in all likelihood could have been refunded at low interest rates. Our recent flotations substantiated this. The cost of relief where we were unable to finance ourselves was taken care of by loans from the Dominion government. We always urged that this burden should be borne entirely by the Dominion government."

The former premier insisted that his ministry had met more severe crises than that confronting the Aberhart administration.

Camrose Board To Keep Roads Clear

CAMROSE, Dec. 4.—Inaugurating a new service the Camrose Board of Trade has undertaken to supplement the highways department service by making arrangements to plow out all roads leading to Camrose after snow storms.

For that service a huge new Richardson snow plow was received here Saturday. Similar to those used on the department of public works' trucks, this one is being attached to one of Shermak Brothers' "44 Transfer" trucks, often seen on the highways between Camrose and Edmonton.

Aggressive and farsighted Camrose merchants have now completed arrangements with surrounding municipalities to keep all roads in this district open during the winter for motor traffic. The board of trade committee in charge of snow plow operations comprises Chris Gotaas, D. R. Francoeur and H. Vellner.

The working of the system is understood to be a contract job, the plow operator collecting on a mileage basis fees from the municipalities and Camrose merchants for plowing done during the winter. The board of trade purchased the machine outright.

Officers Elected By Curling Club

LOUGHEED, Dec. 4.—The annual meeting of the ladies' curling club was held at the home of Miss M. Voorhees, with a large and enthusiastic crowd of ladies anxious to get the season under way. The following slate of officers was elected: President, Mrs. James Jack; vice president, Miss L. Strachan; secretary treasurer, Miss R. Hepworth. A further meeting will be held to elect skips, when arrangements are completed with the men's club.

Turkeys for Christmas are coming into town in large numbers these days; prices are good, ranging from 16 to 18 cents per pound.

Lougheed's lone trapper, George Gillies, son of Alexander Gillies of the Green Valley district, has left for his winter quarters in the Wolf Creek area.

WITNESS SAYS REGINA POLICE INTIMIDATED

Mounties Took on Threatening Attitude Toward Trekkers

REGINA, Dec. 4.—An [illegible] Ottawa trek leader's version of the conduct of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in dealing with the trekkers in Regina in the dying days of June just before the Dominion Day riot which brought death to city detective Charles Millar and injuries to scores of citizens, went into the records of the riot inquiry this afternoon as George Black continued testimony.

"The R.C.M.P. took up a threatening attitude," Black told the three judges acting as a royal commission investigating the riot.

IN PATROL CARS

When word came back from Ottawa that trekkers' demands, presented there by a delegation, had been turned down, the R.C.M.P. began patrolling the Exhibition grounds in patrol cars. The trekkers were living at the Stadium.

Pickets had been set on duty of the Stadium to protect trekkers' effects and guard against [illegible] Black, and police cars "whizzed by close to pickets."

The police patrols were "most threatening" at times. Speed of the patrol cars was sometimes between 35 and 40 miles an hour, he estimated, and sometimes very slow. The men were warned by their leaders to avoid being run down and a "strikers' [illegible]" whether or not the patrol [illegible] of the police [illegible] to provoke someone.

PATROLS OF OWN

The strikers had patrols of their own to regulate the [illegible] going to meals and [illegible] strikers were "Very young and up to pranks."

R.C.M. Police, said Black, patrolled the exhibition grounds with riot batons. "As far as I could see the police were taking the whole thing into their own hands." They warned drivers of cars and trucks that their vehicles would be confiscated if they helped the trekkers. Warned away in this manner were 30 to 40 cars and 10 to 15 trucks.

In cross-examination F. C. [illegible], counsel for the R.C.M.P. and the federal government, showed Black had been arrested and convicted for assault in Moose Jaw in 1931, and sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Welfare League Starts Canvass

CAMROSE, Dec. 4.—The local Welfare league is [illegible] its winter canvass for donations today. Collectors are circulating among all residents to raise funds for the needy of the town and district at Christmas time.

The Welfare league was formed a few years ago as the depression set in, when considerable overlapping in the work of assisting the poor was realized. Since then all local churches and organizations have [illegible] [illegible] charity work [illegible] the Welfare league [illegible]

Constitution Is Adopted By New Prospectors Body

The Edmonton and North West Prospectors' Association gathered in the Shasta cafe Tuesday night to hold their third meeting. The main business for the evening was the formal adoption of a constitution.

The object of the association, as defined in the constitution, is "To further the interests of all members [illegible]"

[illegible]

President J. D. Nicholson reported that the newly-formed Chamber of Mines was progressing and that in a few days a committee would start collecting for funds.

Members decided to hold a social evening under the auspices of the Edmonton and N.W. Prospectors' Association at the earliest possible date before Christmas. An attempt may be made to obtain caribou [illegible] and buffalo meat.

Before adjourning the meeting Mr. Nicholson [illegible] the favorable assays on the [illegible] claims in the Yellowknife district. Some of the claims assayed from two to 139 ounces of gold per ton. He reported that Outpost Island had been optioned by an eastern company and that work would soon begin.

MORE TAXATION IS IN OFFING

Imposition of a wage tax and a [illegible] tax will add to the people's burdens, if recommendations embodied in the final report of the Alberta Tax Inquiry board, [illegible] due for submission to the government, are adopted. The proposed wage tax will be similar to that now imposed in Manitoba, but proved a flop in British Columbia due to the refusal of the Dominion government to collect it from their employees.

The taxation board, which is under the chairmanship of J. F. Percival, deputy provincial treasurer, submitted an interim report to the last session of the legislature, but no action was taken, the government stating that they were holding the report was of an interim nature.

The final draft is now ready for submission.

The proposed tax would follow closely the plan adopted in Manitoba where two per cent is levied on all single persons incomes in excess of $480 and all married persons incomes in excess of $960.

The recommendation regarding a sales tax will include the proviso that the government [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible]

FERRIER WILL MAKE REPORT TRAM DISPUTE

No decision was reached Tuesday on the street railway motormen's shift dispute by the special committee of city council dealing with Mayor Jos. A. Clarke's civic improvement program for 1936, the question being tabled pending a report from Acting Superintendent Thomas Ferrier of the street railway department.

Junior motormen working the night runs under the present system are asking for a 50 per cent share of day runs and are receiving the support of the mayor in their appeal.

Senior operators claim their seniority gives them the right to day runs.

Sitting Tuesday night the committee decided that before it made a recommendation to city council in this connection it would be advisable to secure a report from Mr. Ferrier covering the matter.

The suggestion was made that a system of alternating shifts be adopted for all utility departments but Mayor Clarke objected, pointing out that such a step would mean re-opening negotiations over agreements with departments concerned.

Bruce Farmers Need Seed Oats

BRUCE, Dec. 4.—A farmers' meeting to consider seed requirements, representative of many such gatherings held throughout the district, was held at Fairview school.

The meeting, called by Councillor George Trommelink of Iron Creek M.D., was widely attended by farmers who had suffered loss of crop from frost, or whose grain was unfit for seed purposes on account of frost.

Information given to the meeting showed that seed oats could be supplied by the department of agriculture at a cost in Bruce of between 40 and 50 cents a bushel. It [illegible]

Two Small Debt Cases Dismissed

Judge John Crawford dismissed two small debt actions brought before him in district court Tuesday afternoon.

Howard Redlinger sought $34 from [illegible] general store at Chipman, the sum representing the value of a team of horses sold by [illegible] to settle a judgment against Redlinger's father, now deceased. Redlinger claimed that the horses had belonged to him and not to his father.

Contract Bridge

By E. V. Shepard

RESPONSES TO INFORMATORY DOUBLES

Provided it is made at the first opportunity, and before partner has either bid or doubled, a double of 1 No Trump, or any suit call for less than game (1, 2 or 3 of a major suit, or any minor suit call of less than 5) is informatory, and demands a response from doubler's partner, unless that player can defeat the doubled contract for more than may be made by bidding. Weakness is no excuse for passing an informatory double, especially in case fulfillment of the doubled contract will yield game.

Usually a no trump response is the last thing which the doubler wants to hear, but sometimes it is the only reasonable response. It is better to respond with a bid of a 3-card suit, rather than a call of no trump having the adversely bid suit stopped only once or twice, and having trickless side suits. The following examples illustrate proper procedure of doubler's partner.

In response to partner's double of 1 Spade, bid 2 Diamonds on the first hand shown below. Bid 2 Clubs on the second hand shown (the lowest suit containing three cards).

♠ J 10 7 4 ♦ 9 7 4 3
♥ 8 5 ♣ 8 6 2

♠ J 10 7 4 ♦ 9 7 4
♥ 8 5 3 ♣ 8 6 2

The following examples show when unusual responses must be made to informatory doubles. In each instance partner has made an informatory double of an opening bid of 1 Heart. The last hand may pass, if the opponents are vulnerable.

♠ 7 4 2 ♦ K 4
♥ K Q J 10 6 ♣ 6 5 3

1-No Trump—
♠ Q 7 2 ♦ J 5 3
♥ K Q J 6 ♣ K 8 4

2-No Trumps—
♠ Q 7 3 ♦ K J 3
♥ K Q J 6 ♣ K Q 4

2-Hearts—
♠ K J 5 ♦ 7 4
♥ K Q J 10 6 3 ♣ Q 6

When partner doubles a call of 1 No Trump, unless 2 No Trumps can be bid and game scored, either bid a reasonable suit, or make a business pass if certain to defeat the doubled contract. As a rule, bidding 2 No Trumps over an opposing call of 1 No Trump does not turn out as well as some other procedure.

A sound informatory double should indicate that the doubler holds enough support for partner's best bid to insure fulfillment of contract, provided partner can win a minimum of 3 tricks, and provided adverse card distributions are reasonably normal. If doubler's partner holds sufficient strength to make it probable game may be made, he should bid one trick higher than required to overcall the opposing bid. In that case the doubler should risk a game call, provided he holds the full strength indicated by his informatory double. In case the doubler's partner is short of probable game strength (unless the doubler holds more strength than the minimum required for the double) he will bid only sufficient to overcall the opposing bid. If the doubler holds anything more than the bare holding strength he should support partner's response, so that partner may bid game if able to do so on a trick more than the 3 probable tricks averaged to be held by doubler's partner.

U.S. DRAFTING OF NEUTRALITY BILL STARTED

General Provisions Said to Call for More Stringent Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Sources close to the senate munitions committee report that the drafting of a new and more stringent United States neutrality bill already is under way, with its submission intended for early January.

Its general provisions, as now tentatively written, were said authoritatively to call for:

1—Continuing the present temporary mandatory ban on shipment of munitions to all belligerents.

2—Providing discretionary power for the president to embargo certain other articles.

3—Placing a mandatory bar against loans and credits to belligerents.

4—Providing a mandatory order against United States citizens becoming passengers on belligerents' vessels.

5—Barring from United States ports vessels of any nation whose vessels are found to have used the American flag as a blind to approach within striking distance of enemy craft.

One problem which is still reported under study is what, if anything, to do about the movement of war-useful articles to or through adjacent territory, such as Canada and Mexico. Indications were that, in view particularly of the country's large trade with Dominion, some rather unspecific provision probably would be worked out.

The proposed new act would require that the purchaser take the risk on other trading. That is, it may be provided that vessels trading in the danger territory take out insurance from the countries to which they are plying.

Data Sought By Historical Body

CAMROSE, Dec. 4.—The Camrose Historical Society through its president, Frank L. Farley, widely known Alberta old timer, is soliciting museum pieces, old photos and other historical data, also manuscripts from old timers and others interested in the district.

Mr. Farley is requesting information and articles especially in regards to the establishment of the towns and communities of Bawlf, Edberg, Hay Lake, Heather Brae, Ferry Point, New Norway, Thordjenskold, Roundhill and other sections in the vicinity.

Varsity Students Oppose Training

SASKATOON, Dec. 4.—The University of Saskatchewan delegate to the conference of the National Federation of Canadian University Students, opening in Kingston December 26, will take a stand for the divorcement of the Canadian Officers Training Corps from University life. Meeting Monday night, the students' representative council on Saskatchewan University instructed its delegate to this effect.

HIS HEARTY LAUGH GETS LIFE PASS

BOSTON, Dec. 4.—Herbert L. Oltenberger of Dedham thought the picture was funny and his hearty laugh boomed out in a theatre here.

The rest of the patrons followed suit.

Afterward the manager gave Oltenberger a life pass, saying he has "the most infectious laugh and we appreciate him being in the audience."

BUDGET MUST BE BALANCED, MANNING SAYS

WETASKIWIN, Dec. 4.—Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary, addressed the full membership of the Wetaskiwin Board of Trade in the Driard hotel banquet hall Tuesday noon.

Mr. Manning said that Premier Aberhart had not gone to Ottawa to borrow money for the purpose of introducing Social Credit policies, borrowings would not be necessary for that. In the meantime, the minister said, every effort was being made to balance the budget which was the first necessity in a three-fold policy the government was determined to carry out.

The second necessity was to provide protection for merchants and wholesalers against unfair trade practices and at the same time ensure consumers against exploitation.

The third phase was the restoration of the purchasing power of the people by which, only, the present depressed conditions could be overcome.

That Social Credit would be established, the minister was most emphatic. It would bring about conditions that would make Alberta a most desirable place in which to live, he maintained.

Mr. Manning was introduced by W. A. Wingblad, M.L.A. E. R. Rasmussen, president of the Board of Trade, presided.

ALD. JAS. EAST GETS CHAIR ON FINANCE BOARD

Automatically Chairman of Sinking Fund Board With $500 Stipend

Ald. Jas. East was named chairman of city council's finance committee at its first regular meeting, Tuesday, succeeding Ald. J. W. Fry, who has held that position for the past year. The chairman of the committee automatically becomes chairman of the sinking fund board which post carries with it a stipend of $500 a year, the chairman receiving $10 for each meeting held once a week.

Motion that Ald. East be appointed chairman of the committee was made by Ald. W. W. Clevely and seconded by Ald. E. East, a brother of the chairman.

Prior to the meeting of the committee, it was rumored that either Ald. J. T. McCreath or Ald. R. Foote would [illegible] receive the honor of the appointment.

Regular meetings of the committee, which is composed of Aldermen Jas. East, McCreath, Clevely and Foote, will be held at 4 p.m. on the Tuesday preceding regular meetings of city council, it was decided.

Five Of Stanford Gridders Selected On All-Star Team

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4—Stanford university's rose bowl-bound football team placed five players on the Associated Press' Pacific Coast All-Star team for 1935. Selections were the consensus of 71 sports writers, coaches aand officials.

James "Monk" Moscrip, Stanford's field-goal kicking end, made the team for the third successive year. Two of his team-mates, Fullback Bobby Grayson and Tackle Bob Reynolds, were named for the second straight time, and two others, Guard Larry Rouble and Centre Wes Muller, earned places to complete a Stanford landslide of all-star roles.

Grayson, making a brilliant bid to retain All-America honors, gained last year, polled the heaviest vote. Seventy of 71 pickers named him for the backfield.

THE ALL-STARS

Ends: Jas. Moscrip, Stanford; Jack Brittingham, California. Tackles: Robert Reynolds, Stanford; Lawrence Lutz, California. Guards: Lawrence Rouble, Stanford, Max Stargevich, Washington. Centre: Westley Muller, Stanford. Quarterback: Ed. Goddard, Washington State. Halfbacks: Charles Cheshire, University of California at Los Angeles; Byron Haines, Washington. Fullback: Robert Grayson, Stanford.

Sarnia Grid Star Becomes Alderman

SARNIA, Ont., Dec. 4—Whether he says it with yards or opinions, Norman Perry intends to be in there for Sarnia. An ankle injury put him out of Imperials' line-up this year, and the lanky backfielder's weaving torso didn't go downfield to take any passes as the Sarnians coasted through the O.R.F.U. season.

Perry had given up catching passes to reach for a mandate. The style that caught the 1934 All-Eastern selectors was fancied by the voters too, and Norman's vote total for next year's board of aldermen was 2,172—top of the list.

Abel Not Able To Join Leaf Payroll

TORONTO, Dec. 4. — Connie Smythe, manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, yesterday received a telegram from Taffy Abel, former New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks defence player, stating he would not be able to join the Syracuse Stars, the Leafs farm in the International League.

Featherweight King To Be Determined By Eliminations

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The Illinois and New York State Athletic Commissions agreed yesterday upon a plan to select a world featherweight champion.

Freddie Miller of Cincinnati is recognized by the National Boxing Association as world champion but his title is not recognized by the New York and Illinois commissions, which are not members of the N.B.A.

As a preliminary to choosing a champion, the New York Commission matched Mike Belloise of New York against Claude Varner of Boston, the winner to meet the winner of a fight arranged by the Illinois commission between Everette Rightmire of Sioux City, Ia., and Moon Mullins, of Vincennes, Ind.

The ultimate winner then will be matched against Baby Arizmendi of Mexico and the victor of this fight will be regarded by the two state commissions as world champion.

Today's Markets

At Montreal

MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—Liquors and textiles assumed leadership on Montreal Stock Exchange today.

Industrial Alcohol A and B were strong points, the former up 1½ at 12¼ and the latter 1⅛ higher at 10⅝.

Toronto—Mines

TORONTO, Dec. 4—A scramble in base metals and penny issues contributed to one of the heaviest trading in days since last July on the Toronto Mining Exchange today.

All metal groups were strong. Hudson gained 2½ at 23½. Noranda added a point at 47; Sherritt-Gordon seven cents at 1.25 and smaller gains in Ventures and Falconbridge.

Toronto—Industrials

TORONTO, Dec. 4—The industrial share market of the Toronto Exchange settled down to quiet trading in the last hour today after showing good action in the early hours of the session.

Nickel closed around 43⅝ for a net gain of ⅝. Utilities turned a bit heavy in the late proceedings. Gains held a narrow margin over losses.

At New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—A heavy demand for railroad shares that lifted some into new high ground for the recovery movement held the stock market firmly in the advancing column today.

Closing prices, generally under the day's best, ranged from small fractions to around three points, with the exception of an occasional soft spot among issues that were singled out for profit taking, all groups were well represented. Sales approximated 2,830,000 shares.

BROOMHALL

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—Although European markets continue to lose their advance of last autumn, the statistical position is very little changed from last August-September, when it was realized that southern hemisphere production this season would be well below normal. Temporarily France, Australia and Canada are offering freely and are easily satisfying the reduced European demand.

The present policy in most countries seems to be "sell now" and go into the next season with small reserves which is not conservative although perhaps remunerative. Economic countries in Europe would suggest that it might be safer to build up stocks against the uncertainty of the future. The export demand is slow.

The season is nearing completion but St. John is ready to commence loading. Berth space to Liverpool there is offered at 1s 11½d, which is the minimum rate. Vancouver reports a small demand.

The trade expects a better demand at Vancouver next month.

MARKET WEAK: PRICES DROP

WINNIPEG, Dec. 4—Wheat prices eased on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, responsive to a weak Chicago market. Values closed 1-1⅛ cents lower, December at 84¼, May 87⅞ and July 88¼ cents.

Announcement of the new Canadian wheat board and its policy of disposing of Canada's wheat surplus at competitive prices had little effect on market operations.

Most traders, however, preferred to avoid large-scale market commitments until the new board took office, which resulted in scattered market support. A trickle of selling sufficed to send prices lower.

Chicago was off more than a cent at one time. A net advance of ⅛-¼d at Liverpool had no effect on price trends here. Buenos Aires also was firm.

Foreign demand for Canadian wheat showed no improvement. Cash grains spreads were about unchanged, while coarse grains held barely steady.

DOMINIONS OPEN SENIOR LOOP WITH 4-1 VICTORY

CANADA WINS TEST MATCH WITH ENGLAND, 9-3 SCORE

LONDON, Dec. 4—Canada won the third "test" hockey match of the five-game series with England last night at Richmond, 9-3. The team representing the Dominion has made a clean sweep of the series so far, winning both previous games 5-4. Davey scored for England in the opening and Chappel made it 2-0 three minutes later. But tallies by Walton and Haggarty equalized the count at the end of the first period.

Davey again put England ahead in the second, but counters by Beaton and Walton left it 4-3 for Canada as the last period began.

WINNIPEGS MUST TRIUMPH AGAINST TIGERS SATURDAY

WINDSOR, Dec. 4.—If Winnipegs fail to win their Canadian Rugby Championship game with Hamilton Tigers on Saturday, it will mark the last time a team from the Manitoba capital will challenge for Grey Cup honors, according to Joe Ryan, manager of the western gold champions.

"The west is moving ahead rapidly with its football," explained Ryan. "We're swinging more to the American code each year and the customers are with us. Our season is much shorter than in the east.

PATS and PANS by BILL LEWIS

SENIOR amateur hockey efficiently bowed itself into Edmonton's winter sports picture last night when Dominions skated to a 4-1 triumph over Superiors.

The two teams put on an exhibition that held plenty of interest for the customers, as the bitter rivalry existing between them came to the surface continuously to add greatly to the fans' entertainment. There was scarcely a dull moment in any of the three periods, what with good combination play, fast skating, brilliant goaltending and robust checking being produced by both of the teams.

Last night's attendance, too, was heartening to the officials

The big turn-out indicates a revival of interest in senior hockey and, with inter-city games to come, the men behind the clubs believe they will be given really good support by followers of the ice sport here.

SUPERIOR fans were looking at a strange sight when Lefty Grove, Jimmy Anderson and Shorts Purcell were on the ice.

This was their regular attacking line last season, but last night they were wearing the colors of Dominions. They did themselves proud in their new colors, too, for they divided six scoring points among themselves and thus were the main factors in the downfall of their former team-mates.

Ira Stuart, boss of the Soops, has a lot of reason to feel pleased by the showing Jimmy Graham has made to date. Pivot of the team's attack since away back when, Graham, in the two games played by the club so far, has indicated he is headed for the best season he has had in years, and, if this proves to be the case, he will give the Stuartmen a lot of strength up on the firing line.

GORDON WATT, Superior defenceman, seems to thrive on lots of work. He stays on the ice for most of the game and, besides doing a good job defensively, does a big share of the team's attacking . . . and does it well.

Guy McNeill, returning to amateur competition after being out for three years due to his turning professional with Boston Bruins four winters back, did surprisingly well and should be better every time out.

THERE is a lot of Junior League graduates sprinkled through the rival clubs and they should help in giving senior fans a lot of fast hockey in the local inter-city games.

St. Louis Browns Of American Lge. Sold For $350,000

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 4—A price of $350,000 was reported yesterday to have been set by the Phil Ball estate for the St. Louis Browns of the American league and the team's lone farm, San Antonio of the Texas league.

An authoritative source said a group of St. Louis business men and sportsmen has completed most of the financial arrangements necessary to meet the estate's sale price.

WICHITA, Kansas, Dec. 4.—St. Louis Fliers skated rings around Wichita and won an American Hockey Association game, 6-1.

Port Arthur Bearcats To Defend Canada's Hockey Pride

A light but speedy hockey fleet from Port Arthur, strengthened here and there by selected talent, will represent Canada's pride in the Winter Olympic games this year. The CAHA meeting in Halifax extended an invitation to the Port Arthur Bearcats, semi-finalists last year for the Allan Cup, to make the trip to Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, when Halifax Wolves, cup-winners, could not muster their playing strength. The players who are eligible to make the trip are shown above. Included is McCranor of Fort William and the four Halifax players, who will probably be given an opportunity to join the westerners. Players shown are as follows: 1, Alex Sinclair, centre; 2, Roy Milton, defence; 3, Stan. King, right wing; 4, Arnold Deacon, forward; 5, Bobby McCranor (Fort William), defence; 6, Jackie Nash, goal; 7, "Daddy" Bubar (Halifax), goal; 8, "Chummie" Lawlor (Halifax), defence; 9, Ernie Mosher (Halifax), centre; 10, Vinte Ferguson (Halifax), forward; 11, Bert Cummings, forward; 12, Jim Haggarty, centre; 13, Willie Thompson, forward; 14, Norman Friday, defence or wing; 15, Gus Saxberg, forward.

Superiors Defeated In Hockey Thriller

By BILL LEWIS

Forced back by an attacking line they once knew as their own, Ira Stuart's Superiors had to accept a 4-1 defeat at the hands of Dominions as the senior amateurs made their official debut before a cheering crowd of close to 2,000 fans at the Arena last night.

With Lefty Grove, Jimmy Anderson and Shorts Purcell—last year's Superior regulars—leading the assault, Walter Hunter's Dominion squad raced into an early first-period lead and clung to it throughout the thrilling 60-minute battle.

As bitter rivalry cropped up at every stage of the encounter, mainly due to the changed allegiance of the three starry players mentioned, the enthusiastic crowd of hockey followers sent up roar after roar of approval or disapproval, all deter-

The junior line of Dougie Hargraves, Jerry Brown and Danny MacLeod didn't do too badly in their first appearance in senior company and show plenty of promise. Guy McNeil and Bob Gillies were very effective on defence and their understudies, Eric Ward and Harry Robertson, rearguard of the Safeway juniors last year, also worked well.

Jimmy Graham, Joe Brown and Gordon Watt turned in a good performance for the "Soops" and engineered many a dangerous raid. Of the newcomers, Alex. McSporran, Pete. Rule and Don. McTavish also looked good.

Simon Pure Bouts Here For Friday

Offering fans a lengthy and premising card of simon pure boxers, the Edmonton Amateur Boxing Association will stage a grand boxing show at the Memorial Hall next Friday, December 6, at 8:30 p.m.

All the boxers who figure on the card have been putting in strenuous training in the last weeks in preparation for their respective bouts and plenty of action is in store for those who turn out.

The main event of the evening will be a battle between Bobby Carrington, of the Imperial Athletic club in Calgary, and Billy Pollard of the Edmonton Empire club. Both these battlers are well known in boxing circles and have what it takes to make the fight a real battle. These boxers are in the light-weight division.

Supporting them on the well filled card will be eleven bouts, ranging from the mosquito-weight 70-pound division to the middle-weight 160-pound fighters.

Santa Anita Race To Shatter Record

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—Seventy-five fine thoroughbreds were named yesterday for the Santa Anita $100,000 handicap, Feb. 22. Chances were good the list would grow to 100.

With five more nominated than were listed last spring, indications were the race would be faster and the winning purse larger than the world's record figure of $106,400 Agua Caliente.

SANDLOT PUCK LEAGUE MEETS

The Sandlot Hockey League will hold a final organization meeting, Friday, December 6, at the Y.M.C.A. at 7:30 sharp. All teams already entered or wishing to enter are requested to have a representative at this meeting, which will mark the closing date for entries.

The league will be divided into two separate sections, to be known as the junior and juvenile divisions, with age limits set at 15 and under for juniors and 13 and under for juveniles.

It is announced that the Rev. J. T. Stephens will donate a valuable prize for the winning junior team, which will do much towards enthusing the contestants.

Entries can be made at Williamson and Mills, sporting goods store, or at the meeting Friday.

Officials, interested in the betterment of minor hockey, have been working hard on the Sandlot league, and have nearly completed all arrangements for its success.

Teams joining the league will be given every opportunity of having better playing facilities, and players themselves will be given a better chance of getting into good organized competition.

At Friday's organization meeting, complete arrangements will be made, and a successful season for the circuit is already practically assured.

Chicago Lengthens Leadership by 3-1 Triumph at Boston

Blackhawks Belt Bruising Bruins As Second Place Rangers Look On With 12,000 Other Hockey Fans

BOSTON Dec. 4—Chicago Blackhawks lengthened their American division lead in the National Hockey League by coming from behind last night to outskate Boston Bruins for a 3-1 victory before 12,000 fans.

Among the crowd were Lester Patrick and his New York Rangers, who are trailing Clem Loughlin's speedsters by three points. The Rangers were driven out of New York by the six-day bike race and have been practising here.

The Bruins got off to a flying start and registered their only tally during the fourth minute of play. Max Kaminsky passing to Charlie Sands, who fired a high angle shot over Goalie Mike Karakas' left shoulder.

The Hawks needed only 20 seconds to register the tying goal. "Doc" Romnes converted Paul Thompson's assist for the score. The same combination accounted for the second Chicago tally in the second period.

With a minute left in the middle frame two Bruins were sent off with Don McFadyen, who received a major penalty for slashing Babe Siebert across the face. While the teams played short-handed Howie Morenz passed to Munn Marsh and the right wing golfed a long shot into the Boston net for the third goal.

LINEUP:

Boston: Thompson; Siebert, Shore, Weiland; Beattie, Clapper. Subs: Kaminsky, Shannon, Sands, Graham, Jenkins, O'Neil, Jackson, Conroy.

Chicago: Karakas; Burke, Coulter; Cook, Tidmore, Lockins. Subs: Romnes, Thompson, McFadyen, Morenz, Marsh, Ouilette, Levinsky, Wiebe.

Officials: Bill Stewart and A. G. Smith.

MAROON-CANUCK SERIES SPLIT

MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—Montreal Maroons evened their season's series with Canadiens last night when they won a thrill-packed National Hockey League game 3-2, but the Stanley Cup hosters had to come from behind in the third period to win after each had scored in the first and second periods.

Canadiens went into the lead in the first period when George Mantha caught the defence napping on a high job from centre ice that hit the screen behind the net. Before the defence could clear, Armand Mondou and Goldsworthy sped in, and Mondou relayed to Goldsworthy was in front of the goal to score easily from Mondou's pass.

Maroons tied it up in the second period while Goldsworthy was off. Big Lionel Conacher, who was attacking more than usual was on the scoring end of a play with Hooley Smith and Baldy Northcott in a gang attack.

A penalty to Dave Trottier paved the way for Canadiens to take the lead in the third period when Paul Haynes shot home a goal in a gang attack.

A little more than two minutes later Baldy Northcott tied it up when he poked in a rebound from a hard drive by Hooley Smith and Earl Robinson shot home the game-winning goal late in the period when he stole the puck at centre ice and sped in unmolested to score from close in. He had just jumped on the ice for Stew Evans as he finished serving a penalty.

JUNIORS OPEN LEAGUE GAMES

Safeway Canadians and South Side Athletics will be fighting for their first points in the Junior Hockey League schedule when they clash in the first scheduled league game tonight at the Arena.

Having a brace of preliminary games in order to get some good form, both teams will be battling hard for the winning points this evening.

South Siders have demonstrated their power, having won two straight in the exhibition round, defeating both Canadians and Edmonton Athletic Club. They will go into the fray tonight slight favorites to cop winning honors.

However, it is rumored around the ice lots, that Manager Bill Ruff and Coach Jerry Grove have added new talent to their Canadian crew, who bet out to South Side and tied with E.A.C. in their exhibition games.

If that is so, then the battle on the docket for this evening will be even better than anticipated.

To date the juniors have given examples of some real hockey playing ability. It was first thought, at the beginning of the year, that play would be slower than in previous seasons, but that can easily be argued against. In fact, it has been much faster, and promises even better results.

Clarence Campbell will start the teams at 8:30 o'clock.

Jimmy Foxx To Be Sold By Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—Jimmy Foxx has it direct from headquarters—from no less an authority than Connie Mack, himself, he revealed yesterday—that the Athletics are going to sell him.

The burly slugger said he did not know what uniform he would be wearing next year but he emphasized the club that gets him will have to raise the ante considerably over what the Athletics are putting into their first baseman's pay envelope now.

Recent reports have had him going variously to Boston, Chicago, Cleveland and New York.

Puck Teams Give Crowd Real Treat

By TOMMY GRAHAM

Allan McNabb, black-thatched custodian of Superiors, trudged wearily into the club's dressing room last night with a look of relief on his usually animated countenance. He had just survived a bombardment of flying rubber in which the Dominions shot four goals past his skilful guard while his confreres retaliated with a lone marker in their frenzy-filled effort to put a closer finish to the opening game of the Senior Amateur Hockey league by registering a win.

Folks who attended—and there was a good crowd at that—were convinced that the Dominion machine constitutes very serious opposition to the "Soops" title march again this season. . . . The revamped motor aggregation played with plenty of class last night; they had speed to burn and a smoothness developed to higher heros-power by the manner in which the former Superior line of Jimmy Anderson, "Lefty" Grove and "Shorts" Purcell has been welded together into a finished product.

This trio uncovered all the class that any hockey manager could ask for and were most effective both defensively and offensively all night. They contributed two goals to their mates' cause and were worthy of several more.

Hero of the game—you can pick who you want—but this observer tenses that distinction to young Freddie Layetzke, the young gent who played such a big part behind the pipes for the F.A.C. juniors a few years ago. His performance was brilliant and he handled himself in faultless fashion, stopping many a Superior play and drive which appeared to be headed for a certain counter.

mined by what success their respective favorites were enjoying.

FIRST-RATE HOCKEY

This spirit of intense rivalry gave added zest to a struggle that was filled with exceptionally fine hockey for a league opener. Superiors showed great improvement over their scrambling performance with North Battleford Beavers ten days ago, while Dominions flashed a lot of class that stamps them as real contenders in the current senior amateur race.

Result of this was that the fans were treated to the kind of a game they like to see—lots of action; lots of fight; plenty of good hockey, and a duel close enough for most of the way that it never became uninteresting.

Amateur officials, at the start of this inter-city circuit, expressed the hope that two teams here would solve the problem of giving Alberta good senior hockey, and the rival squads last night did a lot towards bolstering their beliefs.

LAYETZKE IS STAR

Freddy Layetzke, who will be remembered as goal tender of the sensational E.A.C. juniors of 1934, was probably the biggest stumbling block for Superiors. Playing goal for Dominions, Fred gave a spectacular display, stopping shots time after time that appeared ticketed for the twine, and doing it all with an ease that must have been disconcerting to the opposition.

As noted before, Anderson, Purcell and Grove were the pick of the winners' forwards, while the former junior line of Jerry Brown Danny McLeod and Doug Hargreaves also did well.

McLeod, like Guy McNeill, who was making his first amateur appearance since turning pro four years ago, spoiled his effectiveness by incurring too many penalties. The former's three fights was to be cooler, while McNeill spent a total of eight minutes there.

SUPERIOR STANDOUTS

Jimmy Graham, at centre, and Gordon Watt, on defence, were probably the two most outstanding players for the losing aggregation. However, McNabb, in goal, Pete Rule, on defence, and Paul Maher, Dan McFarlan and Alex McSporran up on the wings, also did a lot of fine work.

Graham, repeating his fine performance against North Battleford, was a power on the attack and defence, while he played for most of the 60 minutes, was strong defensively and also proved one of the Superiors' most dangerous men offensively.

Dominions took a 2-0 lead in the first period of the contest, increased this to 3-0 by counting once in the middle stanza, and then wound up by holding Stoops even with one each in the final frame.

OPENS SCORING

Not quite two minutes had slipped by in the opening period when Dominions jumped out in front, Grove, Anderson and Purcell working in close, for the first-named to hit the draperies after a double pass from his two mates.

A flock of penalties followed this, four in a row going to Dominions—two each to McLeod and McNeill, in fact—before the eventual winners added to their lead.

The second goal came shortly before the period ended, when, with Pete Rule off the Superior defence on a penalty, Anderson got away, netting behind McNabb on a play with Grove and Purcell. This made it 2-0 as the squads left the ice for the first breather.

Anderson, for Dominions, and Watt, for Stoops, barely missed scoring in the opening half of the second session, but it was not until 13 minutes had ticked away that Dominions increased their margin to 3-0. McLeod taking a pass-out from J. Brown in full stride, and blazing a shot into the Superior cage.

Dominions were short two men, due to penalties to Ward and McNeill in the late stages of the frame, but the Stuartmen could not muster enough power to get the disc past Layetzke for a score.

The final period saw Soops try their hardest to climb up on even terms but the best they could do was to get within two goals of the winners at one stage. This was exactly half-way through the spasm when Graham, taking a double pass from Maher and Joe Brown, blistered in a drive that gave Layetzke no chance.

On a break-away play shortly before the contest ended, Eric Ward counted the last goal for Dominions, the tally coming while Harry Robertson was serving a penalty, and Soops pressing hard.

Tiger Boss is Surprised at Verdict of Leitch in Recent Deal with Seattle Seahawks.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 4.—Stew Adams, manager of Calgary Tigers of the Northwestern hockey league, expressed surprise last night when informed of the suspension of Tony Hemmerling, acquired by the prairie club last week from Seattle Seahawks and later sold to New York Americans of the National hockey league.

"It's the first I've heard of it," Adams said, "but if it's true I'll fight the suspension if I have to carry it to President Frank Calder of the National league."

Hemmerling went to the Tigers in a trade that sent Jimmy Evans, Calgary winger, to the Seahawks. He was sold a few days later to the Americans for a reported price of $5,000 and two players.

In Seattle Manager Art. Gagne of the Seahawks said Evans had refused to come to terms and the trade was therefore cancelled and Hemmerling suspended. He added that the action had been approved by Gordon B. Leitch, Northwestern league president.

"As far as I know," Adams declared, "Evans did not refuse to report to Seattle. I had word from Calgary yesterday that he was waiting transportation to come to the coast.

"If he did refuse it's up to the league to make the deal stick. They did that with us when we traded Walter Mearthey to Portland for Evans and Evans didn't want to go to Calgary.

"We play in Seattle tomorrow night and before the game I'm going to try and straighten things out with the Seahawks' management. If I can't then I'll take the matter to the president of the National league."

Seattle-Calgary Deal Called Off

SEATTLE, Dec. 4.—The hockey deal between Seattle and Calgary, swapping Tony Hemmerling and Jimmy Evans is off, and Hemmerling has been suspended by the Seahawks.

Art Gagne, manager of the Seattle club, said when Evans, clever Calgary forward, refused to accept the terms of the Seahawks, he had the deal cancelled. He also declared that Dr. Gordon Leitch, president of the Northwest hockey league, approved the suspension of Hemmerling.

Ralph Smith, Calgary forward, who filled in for Hemmerling last week, was turned back to Calgary, leaving Seattle with only two players with which to battle the Tigers here tomorrow night.

Cockshutt and Hudson's Bay Squads Chalk Up Victories

Before a good crowd of fans, the Independent Hockey league teams played a double-header last night at Varsity rink, the Cockshutt Plow boys scoring a 3-2 victory over W. W. Sales and the Hudson Bay squad getting the best of the R.C.M.P. team with a 5-1 score.

In the first game the Cockshutt boys got away to a good start in the first period, running in three counters, Rose, Shaw and Averyard getting the goals. Campbell and Averyard scored credits with assists. The Sales pucksters got their first goal in the first frame when A. Sinclair scored on an assist from D. Ainslie. They chalked up another counter in the third period when Campbell changed to a pass from D. Ainsley. The game featured some classy hockey and some ace attraction in Butterfills.

In the second encounter of the evening, the Hudson Bay boys proved too tough for the R.C.M.P. squad. The Bay got a pair of counters in each of the two first periods, while the Police squad was held scoreless. Both teams scored in the last frame, Allen and Fleming, McDonald, the latter for two, figured for the Bay scores, while McGee and Canty got the goals credited the Police goal on a pass from Elcock. The game was good through-out and featured some very thrilling moments, such as when the R. C. M. P. goalie and Allen traded blows in the former's net.

LACOMBE WINS AT PONOKA, 5-4

LACOMBE, Dec. 4.—In the first game of the Central Alberta League game of the season here Tuesday night Lacombe won from Ponoka by a 5-4 score in overtime.

Hoppus opened the scoring, taking the puck from his own blue line, eluding the defence, and carrying it right in on the fort to draw Wallace out and shoot it behind him. Ponoka then came back up with a shot from the right on a pass from Similuk. E. Larson caught Scoggin on defence, moved wide and slipped through on Craigen, only to miss a chance. Todd scored on a double pass from McGregor and Similuk.

Lacombe's second and second period a man short and Larson again got through to score. McGregor took a pass from Todd in front of net and made no mistake. Tory scored on a solo rush and C. Avison tied the game when he was tried to get rid of a smothered puck.

Both teams checked hard during the third period with no scoring. Wilson broke the tie on a rebound from a shot by Brooks in second part of overtime. Penalties: Lacombe 1, Ponoka 2.

Ill Luck Follows Nighbor's Bisons

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 4.—Ill luck continues to dog the heels of Frank Nighbor and his Buffalo Bisons. After having been successful in securing Art Berlett to bolster his flying two-man defence staff, Nighbor led his herd into London yesterday afternoon and within an hour or two had to have a doctor examine Les Cunningham, centre forward, from Calgary, who had been complaining of an abdominal pain for the last two weeks.

CLEVELAND WINS BITTER BATTLE

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 4 — After making four successful stops, Joe Starke, Pittsburgh Shamrock goalie, missed catching the 50th, a rifle-like shot off Vic Ripley's stick, and that gave the Cleveland Falcons a 1-0 International Hockey League victory over the Shamrocks. It caught the pet left corner of the net, remaining in the third period.

The victory consolidated Cleveland's hold on second place in the western section and left the Shamrocks deeper in last place. It was the fourth straight win for the Falcons.

TECS TAKE IT

LONDON, Dec. 4—London Tecumsehs blanked Buffalo Bisons 2-0 in an International Hockey League game, scoring their seventh victory in the last eight starts and strengthening their hold on the leadership of the eastern section of the league. It was the fourth straight loss for the Bisons, registered in the 1930 season.

CARDINALS COUNT

ROCHESTER, Dec. 4.—Rochester Cardinals scored their first home victory in the International Professional Hockey League, defeating Windsor Bulldogs 3-1. It was only the second win in seven starts for the Cards, leaving them in last place in the eastern group, while the loss dropped Windsor into last place in the western division.

Teams Share Lead In Six-Day Race

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Two teams shared the lead in the New York six-day bicycle race as the grind passed the fifty-second hour at one a.m. today. The combinations of Bobby Walthour and Al Crossley and Grimm and Wissel were tied at 709 laps.

The leaders had covered 914 miles and five laps.

Minor Hockey

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 4—By reason of a whirlwind offensive that netted five goals in the second period, Springfield Indians drubbed Boston Cubs 6-2 in a Canadian-American Hockey League encounter.

HOCKEY SIDELIGHTS

By RAY COLLETT

Living down south must make people soft. Thirty-one-year old Frank Finnegan, right-winged for his hometown Senators nine years, with a part season for Toronto Maple Leafs tossed in for good measure, and nobody ever knocked him off his feet. But last year the exwhile Senators were moved to St. Louis and with them went Finnegan for no Ottawa team could look right without Finnegan in uniform even if it was in a foreign land. Somebody caught the Irishman with a stiff check one night and down he went.

Hockey followers marvelled—they thought the scrappy little forward just couldn't be downed, but that fall cost him a fractured jaw. Slow to start was Frankie when he hit the N.H.L. for in his first year—1925—he didn't score a goal. Next season he had improved twice he blinked the light, but since then flunters have come from his stick and fast.

Finnegan got a break last year when Maple Leafs bought him for $8,000 and though he's a quiet and unsensational sort of player, he's liable to be around a long time. With a winning team at last he may have a chance to shoot his high mark of 26 points, registered in the 1930 season.

Branches Endo... Bearcats as Tea... In Olympic Games

Only Quebec Branch Has Objections Stating Montreal Royals be Given Even Chance.

MONTREAL, Dec. 4.— Secretary Alphonse Therien of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association yesterday released a flock of telegrams from hockey leaders all over the country, the general tenor of which indicated the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association was endorsed in its choice of Port Arthur Bear Cats as Canada's Olympic representatives.

The QAHA had "wired all branches of the CAHA urging a playoff between Montreal Royals, eastern Canada finalists, and Bear Cats, western Canada champions, for the right to go to Germany in place of Halifax Wolverines, now disbanded.

President Gilroy of the CAHA, wired he was "compelled to refuse reopening of the question," as the committee which made the decision was "unanimous." The decision, he said, was approved by Vice President Hardy, British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan branches. Only ones to dissent later were Past President F. C. Greenleaf of Montreal and the Quebec branch. Ottawa had not been heard from.

From Amherst, N.S., J. E. Wry replied he was "completely satisfied with Quebec branch but cannot see your argument as outlined in wire."

He had every confidence that the C.A.H.A. executive would not jeopardize Canada's Olympic chances.

British Columbia had approved the invitation to Port Arthur and "this decision stands." A. W. MacDonald wired from Trail.

Calgary, Edmonton, Fort William and Winnipeg endorsed the C.A. H.A. with Edmonton suggesting serious consideration be given Royals as strengthening material for the team.

From Dunnville W. A. Fry, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, wired the "personal view" that Port Arthur "the runner up team properly strengthened, is the logical choice to represent Canada.

Varsity Hoopsters In Action Tonight McDougall Gym

Jake Jamieson's Golden Bears will be seen in action against the Tawks over at McDougall gym, the Hawks over at McDougall gym, each having defeated the Bruins on two occasions. But the Golden Bears have been coming along in a very impressive manner, showing plenty of speed and playing a fine combination game. As the Bears also have the advantage of the Redskins under their belts, they are confident that they will clip the Hawks' wings.

The preliminary, which is scheduled to begin at half-past eight, will be played between the intermediate Bears and the Apaches. The intermediates have not been turning out anything to write home about in the way of basketball so far and will have to be on their toes if they expect to take the fast moving Apaches.

RED DEER WINS CLOSE CONTEST

STETTLER, Dec. 4.—Red Deer took the first Central League game here last night beating Stettler Imperials 3-2. It was a hectic hard fought battle with ten penalties being handed throughout. Red Deer opened the scoring from the first face-off, Burns flipping in Lee's pass. Midway through the period, Wells and Sam Costigan combined nicely and Wells made no mistake for Stettler's first goal. As the period closed Nugent picked up a pass from Harrison and flipped a back hand shot into the corner to put Stettler one up.

Penalties started to crop up in the second with high sticking and cross checking the main offences. About the half way mark Croft went down on a nice rush and passed to Kee to tie the score.

The third opened fast and Stettler kept up an almost continuous power play in an effort to get a winning counter. Burns broke away with only one man to beat and passed to Croft for the winning goal, Stettler play-off hopes were severed the Red Deer net but were unable to equalize.

Ice was in perfect condition and a crowd of about 400 turned out.

Red Deer—Thomas; Croft, Kee; Cox, Lee, Burns, Kennedy, Hayhoe, Tomalty, Gordon.

Stettler—Seaby; Duckworth, Nichol; Wilson, S. Costigan, Wells, T. Costigan, Harrison, Nugent, MacKee.

Referee—Dr. Wright.

Big Four Hockey League Underway With Good Game

The Big Four Hockey League opened its season Wednesday night with a doubleheader played at the Varsity rink.

In the first game the Edmonton Aero Club Flings won from Ogilvie Flour Mills by the score of 6 to 2. Ogilvies were not able to muster their full team and were thus handicapped while the Edmonton Aero Club had been strengthened, this season by the addition of Ted Kinsella, Flin Flon who played his last season of junior hockey with the Edmonton Athletic Club last year.

The second game, the C.N.R. won from the Edmonton Motors by the score of 3 to 2. These two teams were evenly matched and the game was a thriller throughout.

The Big Four League and the Independent League are affiliated with playoffs games between the winners of both leagues and with a surplus of good hockey talent in evidence these games should be worth the close attention of the hockey fans of this town.

"Is That My Car Coming?"

Are you a little slower than your companions to notice a sign on an approaching street car? A license plate on an automobile? Suitable glasses will probably reveal a new world to you—a world of sharper outlines, brighter colors. And, if well chosen, they may add to rather than detract from your appearance.

At EATON'S you can be sure of correctly prescribed glasses, becoming style. Our equipment for examinations is thoroughly modern. We have sample glasses of many different types for you to try on before your final choice is made. You will appreciate, too, the comfort of our waiting room.
